Stalled Axis Army Digs In on Desert Short of Objective

Rommel Apparently Abandons Hope of Revitalized Drive for Nile Delta for the Present—Aerial Superiority of Allies Is Most Important Factor in Their Favor

CAIRO, July 28 (AP).—The Axis armies of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, stalled four weeks in the Qattara-Mediterranean Corridor west of El Alamein, appeared today to be digging in for a defensive of indefinite duration some eighty miles short of their foremost objective, the British naval base of Alexandria.

There was evidence that Rommel has abandoned hopes of an immediate revitalized drive on the Nile Delta and will be satisfied for the present to hold what he has gained in the long march across Libya and into Egypt.

LATEST OUTBURST

Latest outburst of desert fighting came yesterday and the battle continued into the night with the Allied attackers falling back to their positions after having inflicted some losses on the enemy and taking some prisoners. The Italian communique claimed a second 1,000 British prisoners were taken in battles with two Axis divisions south of El Alamein, and asserted that sixty-two vehicles were destroyed.

It is apparent that in all the parrying for position in nearly a month of desultory fighting the British have not driven a permanent wedge into the enemy forces holding the northern coastal sector.

BULLETINS

ENGLAND BOMBED

LONDON, July 29 (Wednesday) (CP). — German raiders bombed three places in East Anglia and the Midlands early today in a resumption of last night's attacks, which were on the largest scale in several months. Neither casualties nor damage were reported immediately. Twenty-six of the invading aircraft were reported shot down. High explosive and incendiary bombs caused fires and damage, especially in residential quarters, the German announcement said.

RAIDED HAMBURG

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), July 29 (Wednesday) (AP).—The Royal Air Force attacked Hamburg last night for the second time in three nights, it was announced today.

JUDGE MAY BE UNABLE TO ACT

Could Be Disqualified From Trying Saboteurs Because Son Defending Counsel

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—The possibility that Chief Justice Harlan Stone might disqualify himself for hearing the pleas on behalf of the alleged Nazi saboteurs arose today with disclosure that his son, Major L. H. Stone, is a member of the defence counsel.

There was also a question whether Justice Francis Murphy might not disqualify himself on the ground of his present connection with the United States Army, to whose custody and prosecution President Roosevelt has consigned the prisoners.

Any such decisions would be for Stone and Murphy themselves, but presumably they would consult the other seven justices in conference before the special term opens at noon tomorrow.

Murphy, a lieutenant colonel, was on manoeuvres in the Carolinas when the special court term was convoked but obtained leave from his commanding officer and left for the capital today.

Major Stone, while assisting in the defence, is not expected to address the court.

Meanwhile, Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem.-N.Y.), a senior member of the House of Representatives judiciary committee, declared in a formal statement that the court "without hesitation should deny the petition for a writ of habeas corpus."

"Our people are of the opinion that the eight men should be executed with all possible dispatch," he said.

Nazis Using Scorch Gas

BERNE, July 28 (AP).—German use of "smokethrowers" was mentioned for the first time today in Berlin dispatches telling of the occupation of Rostov.

A Berlin dispatch to the Basle newspaper Nachrichten said that in the midst of "unnerving detonations of heavy artillery" great clouds of smoke were seen to rise from the ground.

The grass will not grow again from the ground touched by this smoke, this dispatch said. There was said to be a new type of gas used in connection with the smoke, and the Berlin newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter reported the new weapon was handled by special troops.

Senator Would Shift Japanese From Aleutians

Wallgren Going North to Find Out Why Enemy Holding Islands

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28 (AP). — Senator Hon. C. Wallgren (D., Wash.), who expects to leave with other senators on an inspection trip of Alaskan and Aleutian defences early in August, tonight expressed eagerness to "get up there and see just what is going on."

"We expect to find out just who is to blame for the Japs being in Attu and Kiska, and when we do we'll pull no punches," Wallgren told newsmen.

Wallgren said he had received word from Senator Chandler (Democrat, Kentucky), chairman of the Military Affairs Subcommittee, that arrangements had been completed with the army for the trip.

"For ten years I have been saying we should take protective measures against the Japs," declared Wallgren, who left for Los Angeles tonight.

"CALL-UP" AGE MAY BE LOWER

Men of Nineteen May Be Drafted Before Married Men Taken

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP).—The probability was seen here today that the Federal Government will lower the bottom call-up age from twenty to nineteen before turning to the pool of married men to meet future quotas for compulsory military training.

The trend of recent quotas indicates that the current pool of single men aged twenty to forty soon will be exhausted. A lowering of the call-up age could be expected to bring in enough single youths to m[eet] requirements for several months.

It is not known how many additional men would be affected by such action, but the recent lowering of the age from twenty-one to twenty placed an extra 100,000 on the available list, however, many of those 100,000 will be turned down because of physical unfitness, and others will be granted postponement because of the nature of their work. The same factors would apply to some extent to the nineteen-year-olds.

National Defence officials have asked for 25,000 men for the August call-up. September requirements are not known, but it is understood that if they equal the August figure they will almost exhaust the available single men and childless widowers aged twenty to forty.

When that group is exhausted, the Government will face three alternatives: the lowering of the age group to nineteen, the lifting of the age limit to forty-five, and the calling of married men.

House Defeats Censure Move By Opposition

Amendment Calling for Shake-Up in Militia Branch Lost

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP).—The House of Commons tonight defeated by 130 votes to 34 an amendment moved by Howard Green (Con., Vancouver South) calling for reorganization of the Defence Department as a consequence of the inquiry conducted into dispatch of Canadian troops to Hongkong last Fall.

The amendment moved Monday was to the formal motion to go into committee of supply upon which the Hongkong debate took place.

It was in effect a motion of censure. The Government forced a recorded vote when it appeared the Opposition would let the motion lose by a call of ayes and nays.

The Conservative, C.C.F. and New Democracy members solidly supported the amendment but gained only one vote from outside their own ranks, that of Jean Francis Pouliot (Lib., Temiscouata).

The debate on the Hongkong report occupied all of Monday's sittings, and lasted through today's morning and afternoon sittings and into the night sitting.

The House then went into committee of supply on civil estimates.

THE AMENDMENT

Mr. Green's amendment was:

"That this House is of the opinion that such of the evidence taken before the inquiry into the dispatch of the Canadian Expeditionary Force to the Crown colony of Hongkong

LONE RAIDERS DO NO DAMAGE

Japanese Flying Boat Intercepted and Is Probably Destroyed

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 29 (Wednesday) (CP).—A single Japanese flying boat which attempted to bomb Townsville in Northeastern Australia last night was intercepted by Allied fighters and was believed to have been destroyed, a communique said today.

The raider was "hit repeatedly and when last seen was losing height," the communique said. "It is believed to have been destroyed."

It was the third night foray against Townsville, but in all cases the Japanese raiders dropped their bombs harmlessly into the sea outside the city.

A single Japanese plane also made a night attack on the Allied New Guinea base of Port Moresby. Several bombs dropped caused no damage, the communique said.

In a counter-offensive Allied air units were reported to have scored hits on the Japanese-held airdrome at Kupang, Dutch Timor, despite fighter opposition.

Allied ground patrols meanwhile drove the Japanese back from advanced outpost positions west of Gona in Southwestern New Guinea, and Allied planes scored numerous hits in Japanese installations there.

FIND WOMAN DEAD; POLICE SEEK MEN

Body Found Tied and Gagged in Vancouver Hotel Room—Suspect Slaying

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP).—Police tonight continued investigation of the death of Mrs. Alexis Hillmora Sloan, forty-two, whose body was discovered last night on a bed in a downtown hotel.

Identification was made by the woman's husband, David Sloan, who read of the death and saw newspaper pictures of a mongrel dog that was found under the bed on which its mistress was discovered.

Police said the woman may have been strangled, as she had been gagged and left with her hands and one foot tied to the iron bedstead with stockings. However, the exact cause of her death will not be known until after an autopsy has been performed.

Two men are being sought for questioning in connection with Mrs. Sloan's death.

New Guns Given First Real Test

Full Moon Tempts Nazis Across Channel—Birmingham Chief Target

LONDON, July 28 (CP).—Britain's newest secret anti-aircraft guns had their first real test last night as the Nazi air force, favored by a full moon, sent over the largest number of planes to reach England in several months.

Birmingham, the industrial centre in the Midlands, was the principal target of the fifty to seventy planes which crossed the Channel, but other points in the Midlands and the Eastern Counties and even the Greater London district got their share of enemy attention. The night alarm in the London area was the first since June 3.

EIGHT SHOT DOWN

British defences, including night fighters, shot down eight Nazi raiders, and a ninth German bomber was reported destroyed this morning off the Southwest Coast.

An Air Ministry communique announced fires and damage were caused in the Birmingham area and a number of casualties resulted.

The new guns appeared to be widely employed, but no detailed description of them was permitted. Listeners knew something unusual was happening when they heard the novel twang in the midst of the familiar bang and crash of gun and cannon.

STINGING RECEPTION

The stinging reception they gave the Nazis, coupled with the activity of the night flyers, made the Germans spread themselves and pre-

CUTS BIG SWATH OF DESTRUCTION

Disastrous Storm Flattens Crops and Floods Highways in Okanogan Valley

OROVILLE, Wash., July 28 (AP).—A devastating hail and rain storm cut a two-mile swath of destruction across the Northern Okanogan Valley late yesterday afternoon, leaving crops flattened and shredded, highways inundated and the district's lifeline irrigation canal broken and filled with debris.

The storm struck first four miles south of here, and fields were under nearly two feet of water within a few minutes. Hail, driving down in a blinding, stinging sheet, ruined several orchards, and covered the area with a white blanket still visible hours afterward.

WAR MATERIALS CONVOY ARRIVES

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP). — The B.B.C. said tonight in a French language broadcast "a great number of ships carrying new war material had arrived in Egypt from America."

C.B.S. heard the broadcast, which added: "It was stated in London this afternoon that these ships carried, among other things, new tanks of the General Grant type."

MASS EXECUTIONS

VICHY, July 28 (AP).—The Germans announced today the execution of twenty-eight persons at Lille on conviction of a series of offences, including sabotage, possession of weapons and Communistic activity.

IS OBJECT OF BITTER ATTACK

Two Indian Leaders Criticize Sir Stafford Cripps for Broadcast

ALLAHABAD, India, July 28 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps was bitterly attacked today by two of the top Indian leaders in the latest round of the fight over the Indian Nationalist resolution proposing withdrawal of British rule from India.

Maulana Abdul Kalan Azad, President of the All-India (Nationalist Party) Congress, told a press conference in Bombay that critics of the resolution, and particularly Sir Stafford, had ignored a frank analysis of the political situation and constructive proposals contained in the resolution.

Jawaharlal Nehru, former Congress President and still a leading spokesman, said here that both British and American critics "have proceeded either on a complete misunderstanding of the Congress resolution or a desire to pervert it."

Both Indian leaders attacked Cripps for a broadcast Sunday, in which he had criticized the resolu-

Eight German Vessels Sunk

MOSCOW, July 28 (AP).—Eight enemy ships have been sunk in the Gulf of Finland by Soviet naval and air forces, the Russians said tonight.

A Pravda dispatch from the Red northern fleet said a group of bombers attacking a northern port sank an enemy oil tanker, three transports and a barge, and destroyed several warehouses.

The midnight communique claimed Soviet ships sank three enemy transports totaling 19,000 tons.

Hard-Pressed Red Army Battles to Check Nazis Driving on Stalingrad

Warns Reich to Oust Nazis or Take Pounding

Air Marshal Harris Promises Germany Raid Every Night

LONDON, July 28 (CP).—Air Marshal Arthur Travers Harris, expanding his recent remark that "if I could send 1,000 bombers to Germany every night it would win the war by Autumn," told the Germans by radio tonight "we are going to scourge the Reich from end to end."

"You will have no chance," he told the German people. "Soon we shall be coming every night and every day, rain, blow or snow—we and the Americans.

"It is up to you to end the war and the bombing. You can overthrow the Nazis and make peace."

THEORY CHALLENGED

The air marshal is the organizer of Britain's huge raids on Germany and the German occupied countries. His theory that he could end the war with 1,000 planes a night has been challenged by military writers, including Gen. Sir Robert Gordon-Finlayson, who has said:

"Target areas are so numerous, dispersed and often so distant that under a period of years, we should not calculate upon inducing Germany to surrender from bombing alone."

However, the air marshal warned today: "Already 1,000 bombers go to one town like Cologne and destroy one-third of it in an hour's bombing. We know, we have photographs.

"In cloudy weather we bomb your factories and shipyards by day. We

NOT REDUCING POSTAL RATES

Suggestions Have Been Made for Increase Postmaster-General States

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP).—Postmaster-General Mulock said in the House of Commons tonight he could hold out little hope of a reduction in postal rates during the war.

Speaking during consideration of postoffice estimates, Col. Mulock said suggestions for increased postal rates had been made, instead of reductions being proposed.

He was answering a question by T. L. Church (Con., Toronto Broadview).

The Postmaster-General told J. R. MacNicol (Con., Toronto Davenport) that pamphlets issued by the North Toronto Bible House had been denied the use of the mails after consultation with the Justice Department.

Mr. MacNicol said he could not conceive of the Bible house issuing material for "illegal purposes."

Mr. MacNichol said he did not know what the pamphlets had contained.

LITTLE INTERFERENCE

Col. Mulock said the postoffice did not interfere with religious publications even when they gave pronounced expressions of belief. But when there was questioning of the MILES CITY, Mont., July 28 (AP).—Emilie Nofke, whose address was not immediately available, was burned to death today in the wreckage of a plane she was piloting which crashed into a steep hill near here during a forced landing.

Coroner Ralph Bray said the destroyed plane was one of six small privately-owned training craft being flown from Tacoma, Wash., to Aberdeen, S.D.

All the planes made forced landings on a ranch near Hathaway. The five brought down without mishap resumed their flight late today.

4,000,000 MEN

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—President Roosevelt told reporters today the United States has around 4,000,000 men under arms.

Assuming the figure included all the nation's armed forces, this was taken as an indication the army may already have reached the 3,600,000 total which Secretary Stimson said several months ago was its goal by the end of 1942.

Fierce Fighting Taking Place Forty to Fifty Miles North of Vital River Port — Von Bock Sparing Neither Lives Nor Machines —Rail Lines in Danger

SECOND FRONT MENTIONED

MOSCOW, July 29 (Wednesday) (AP).—German troops pouring into the Caucasus have made another crossing of the Lower Don at Tsimlyansk and have reached Bataisk, fifteen miles south of Rostov, in their attempt to cut the Stalingrad-North Caucasian railroad, the Soviets announced early today.

"In the region of Tsimlyansk the enemy crossed the river at one place and reached the southern bank," the Tuesday midnight communique said.

"Our men are attempting to repel enemy attacks. Soviet tanks destroyed eight Nazi tanks, eighteen guns, ten trucks and killed 200 Germans during this engagement.

BATAISK REGION

"In the region of Bataisk there was fierce fighting. Four enemy attacks were repelled and the enemy suffered heavy losses. Soviet artillery destroyed seventeen tanks and annihilated one infantry battalion."

At the eastern bend of the Don River before Stalingrad the Russians also were engaged in a supreme fight. Dispatches said the Red Army killed 8,000 Nazis in a single small sector on a curving front only some forty or fifty miles north of the vital Volga River port.

The Germans, fighting their way toward Bataisk (which the Germans claimed they captured Monday) were striking at the western end of the Caucasian rail system. A branch railway stretches 100 miles southeastward from Bataisk to connect with the main Tikhoretsk-Stalingrad line at Selsk. But the main trunk line apparently was in more immediate danger from the German thrust across the Don at Tsimlyansk, which is only about thirty-five miles from the railway.

CONTINUE ADVANCE

The Russian communique reported steady but laborious advances in the Voronezh area 300 miles north of Rostov on the upper Don, but in the main Caucasian theatre it was evident the Nazis still were rolling forward.

Huge forces of German reserves poured into the battle below fallen Rostov and Novocherkassk near the Don mouth on the Sea of Azov. The skies were clouded with dive-bombers and the land was crawling with swastika-emblazoned tanks in a furious combat.

The Germans claimed they had widened and deepened their penetrations south of the Don and claimed to have reached or crossed the river along the whole curving front of the big Don bend.

FOR SECOND FRONT

The entire Russian press stressed the gravity of the hour, and Pravda again made an implied plea for a second front in reporting eleven new German divisions moved into Russia from France and Holland.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's armies were believed to be still

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1942, by Boulham Co.)

LONDON, July 28.—The Russian High Command announced today the evacuation of Rostov on the Don and Novocherkassk, and retirement to new positions eastward of the Don Delta. The Germans, however, make progress only at great cost and after fierce fighting. The invaders' immediate objective appears to be to cut the railway from Stalingrad to the naval base of Novorossisk. This line has already been heavily bombarded.

Some Nazi tank columns, according to the Stockholm correspondent of The Times, are held ready to press forward to the oil region around Maikup in North Caucasus. The Russians have continued heavy attacks in the Voronezh area, but the Nazis have now received reinforcements and recent fighting has produced little change of ground. As the enemy fears the loss of further bridgeheads the fury of battle here is likely to increase.

From Moscow comes the report that Nazis' attempts to cross the Upper Don were frustrated by Red Air Force bombers which smash pontoons, rafts and rubber boats with low level attacks. What enabled the Russians to counter-attack and change operations in their favor around Voronezh was the arrival of reserves despite the Luftwaffe's attempts to destroy communications. The Don front here has been broadened by Russians crossing to the western bank and driving back their foes. The Germans are actually within the perimeter of Voronezh but their hold is gradually loosening.

Fierce battles continue on the adjacent Briansk front where Nazis' motorized units have suffered heavily. At Leningrad the fighting is local and Nazi counter-attacks have been repelled.

Hamburg was left in flames by the latest Royal Air Force raid directed at U-boat yards and other military objectives. One hundred and seventy-five thousand incendiary bombs

BLOWN UP BY CHINESE MINE

Japanese Troop Train Destroyed in Anhwei Province —Many Are Killed

CHUNGKING, July 28 (AP).—A Japanese troop train travelling through the middle of Anhwei Province was blown up by a Chinese mine at Chaohaien, the Central News Agency reported tonight, and the locomotive and all the cars derailed. The agency did not mention what casualties resulted.

It added, however, that 400 Japanese were killed or wounded in a Chinese attack northwestward of Central Anhwei. After pounding the Japanese positions with artillery, the Chinese rushed in and engaged the enemy in hand-to-hand fighting, the agency reported.

It said fierce fighting was in progress in the Linchwan and Yingtan areas of Kwangsi "with the Japanese suffering heavy losses."

ALBERTA TO APPEAL

EDMONTON, July 28 (CP). — An appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada will be made by the Alberta Government against a recent judgment of the Alberta Appeal Court, declaring the Legal Proceedings Suspension Act, 1942, "wholly ultra vires," Premier William Aberhart announced tonight.

Russia Has Oil Supply

LONDON, July 28 (CP).—British oil experts estimated tonight that Russia has more than 100,000,000 barrels of oil in storage or in production in regions other than the Caucasus and beyond the reach of the German armies driving south.

These experts, who declined to be quoted by name, said the Russian armies could fight on for some months on this reservoir alone because:

1. Russian oil production is being increased in the vast hinterland far to the east of the Volga.

2. Civilian use has been curtailed since the war started.

3. Russian exports of oil, including some to Germany, decreased in the years prior to the war and halted entirely when Germany invaded the Soviet.

COAL SUPPLY IS SHORT ON COAST

Board Representative Says Situation Serious but No Cause for "Jitters" Among Consumers

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP).—C. L. O'Brien, representing the National Coal Administrator at Ottawa, believes that the coal situation on the Pacific Coast is serious, but that there is no cause for "jitters" on the part of domestic consumers.

Before going East Monday, Mr. O'Brien said his department's policy was to maintain the supply of coal to essential industries and see that the best possible use of resources was made by the household consumer. While on the Pacific Coast, he visited some of the mines and conferred with Government and coal company officials.

Germans Draft Men From Norway Plants

First Group of 20,000 for Nazi War Machine Leave Oslo Bound for Reich to Work on Military Construction

MONTREAL, July 28 (CP).—The Nazis are making good threats to conscript Norwegian labor for German military construction projects, information reaching the Norwegian Press Bureau here said today.

The first groups of drafted workers, believed to be the beginning of an initial contingent of 20,000, left Oslo and other cities last week for airdromes and fortifications now under construction by the Germans in Southern Norway and Troendelag.

As announced originally the drafting of labor was to have begun early in May when the Nazis said it would have to be put into effect "with all possible haste" and threatened that German "experts" would take over if Norwegian authorities did not produce a quick result.

The original conscription plan struck a snag when employers refused to obey orders to prepare lists of one-third of their employees whom they regarded as least indispensable. Instead, employers turned in lists of all their workers, leaving it to the authorities to make the selections.

RULES ALTERED

Eventually, rules governing the draft were altered. Each province was given until June 24 to report its minimum quota for the draft and on that date conscription was to begin. More than three weeks passed before any action came, but it is now believed that the initial contingent of 20,000 will be completed before the end of this month, and that 45,000 more will be summoned before the end of the Summer.

The draft will affect certain trades and industries more severely than first believed. Companies not engaged in helping the German war effort will have to surrender all their employees; banks and offices will have to give up 50 per cent of theirs.

All male employees under forty-five years in hotels and restaurants will be replaced by women. The new rules exempt women from actual draft, but designate them to take the places of drafted male workers.

Although it has been reported a portion of the draft will be used for labor in Germany, Nazi authorities in Norway say all draftees are needed in Norway.

LETTER CAME AFTER DEATH

Canadian Flyer Decorated For Heroism Writes Letter To Parents

HAMILTON, Ont., July 28 (CP).—Before he died, P.O. Bruce Gordon McIver, of Hamilton, wrote a letter to his parents to be mailed when he did not come back.

Following is the full text of the letter made public at the same time as a report that he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for heroism:

As I write this—my obituary as it were (rather novel to write your own) I am not at all frightened at the prospect. The chances are about 20 to 1 that you will get your 200 hours in and we all believe that we will be one of the lucky nineteen, so by thinking that you feel quite at ease. Jim Erly, my roommate, has done six trips and it is really not as bad as you would imagine. Really, it is easier to go on operations than to sit at home and wait for them to come back.

PROUD OF EFFORTS

I might seem to have not been kind to you both by throwing away all the hopes you had built up for me by giving me a university education and then turning around and joining the Air Force. I know that you had always been so proud of my little efforts and success in school work.

Truly I did join thinking that I would be an instructor after finishing my course. All the fellows did in my course, so I did what I thought best and expected to stay in Canada. After getting to Toronto at Overseas Pool, I knew then what was to happen and by that time I was reconciled to the fact and hoped that you were, too—although I did not think it best to tell you and so spoil what little time there was left by having that hanging over our heads.

BEEN WORTH IT

Looking back on it all now—the Atlantic crossing—meeting the King and Queen—seeing England—meeting real men here in the Air Force—well, it has been worth it! I have certainly lived life to the full and to do that one must take risks.

As you have been proud of me before, you have all the more reason to be proud of me now; and the fact that you can hold up your head in anyone's company, and no one can say a word against me, your son, I hope that will be some consolation.

For my own part, if I had the chance to do everything again, I wouldn't do anything different—which is something to say and to feel right in your mind about.

I must be off now to do "briefing"—to find out where we are going tonight and get ready. I hope that you will never receive this letter, as it is only to be posted in case I don't get back.

NOT ANY LACK OF VOLUNTEERS

Canadian Overseas Regiments Would Supply Plenty For Paratroop Battalion

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 28 (CP).—There's a wealth of volunteers, if any are needed, among Canada's overseas infantry regiments for the Dominion's projected paratroop battalion.

Defence Minister J. L. Ralston's announcement that a Canadian airborne unit will be formed was welcome news in army camps here, where it is felt that this formation may be the first step in the creation of a considerable Canadian airborne force which would include glider units and giant troop-carrying planes.

A MATCH FOR ANY

On the ground, the Canadian army is considered a match for any in armored strength, guns and infantry, but there is a growing military opinion that airborne formations also will be necessary in any major European operation.

Certain Canadian units have been on manoeuvres with paratroops from Britain and they realize how valuable these skymen would be on operations. For several days these air troops and the Canadians shared the same camps and the Dominion fighters learned at first-hand about paratrooping.

Senior Canadian officers have kept in close touch with the development and training of British airborne formations. In the Fall of 1940 the first demonstrations were staged by British paratroops and since then the sky force has grown to sizeable proportions.

EXCITING WORK

It is recalled here that Canadian flyers took part in the operations when paratroops raided Bruneval, France, and destroyed a radio location post early this year. The airmen were among crews which carried the parachute units across the Channel to carry out their jobs and many Canadians found the work more exciting than "straight bombing."

BRITISH LABOR KEY AND PIVOT

Member of Overseas Party Speaks to Delegates at C.C.F. Meeting

TORONTO, July 28 (CP).—Objectives of the British Labor party for postwar Britain and the postwar world were outlined here tonight by Herman Finer, of London, fraternal delegate from the British Labor party to the C.C.F.'s tenth anniversary convention.

Mr. Finer spoke at the convention banquet at which Sam Lawrence, of Hamilton, Ontario president of the C.C.F., and Mrs. Louise Lucas, of Mazenod, Sask., sometimes described as the "Mother of the C.C.F.," were also speakers.

The British Labor party is serving a dual function in the present British Government, Mr. Finer said. On the one hand is a group co-operating with the Government and serving in Cabinet positions. On the other hand others—described as a "ginger group"—have sometimes been vehement in their criticism of Government policy.

"In the present crisis," he said, "both the key and the pivot is British labor."

LABOR'S SACRIFICE

Labor has "sacrificed many relations, many of the things it won through years of hard struggle," but these are to be restored after the war. Labor has stood for fair treatment of conscientious objectors "one of the noblest things in the annals of all labor and the British Government."

Speaking of the post-war period, Mr. Finer, who serves on the Labor party's committee on post-war reconstruction, said that "in England . . . never again will we allow the unemployment as in the years between the last war and the present one."

Public control is planned of such basic economic and industrial functions as banking and credit, iron and steel, transport in all its forms and fuel and power.

Labor in England, he said, visions for the post-war international scene "a League of Nations with teeth in it," disarmament, "peace without revenge," diminution of tariffs and an international currency based on gold.

AFTER-WAR ELECTIONS

He predicted victory for Labor in British elections after the war, based on perception of the people of the "failure of the Government class," the "failure of capitalism," and the perception of the heroic human qualities of mankind as demonstrated in the face of air bombardment.

Mr. Lawrence said he regarded the holding of the tenth anniversary convention in Ontario as significant. "Success of our movement in Ontario is essential to our success in Canada as a whole . . . observers everywhere are agreed that before long we will be called on to show that our claims of competence to build a new world order are not mere words. Days of historic significance for Canada and the world lie ahead and this meeting here in a key province is a vital step on the way."

SPEAKS FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Lucas addressed herself particularly to the women.

"I am singling out the women now because I believe they have the making or breaking of this movement for human need and social justice in the hollow of their hands . . ."

In Command of Artillery

BRIGADIER R. A. FRASER, V.D.

WHO recently took up his appointment as officer commanding the divisional artillery with the 6th Division, which has headquarters here. A native of Montreal, he served as a sergeant-major in the first Great War when he went overseas with the First Canadian Division. In 1915 he was commissioned while with the Royal Field Artillery, and later saw service with the Ulster Regiment. On conclusion of the war he was captain and adjutant of the Seige Brigade, Canadian Garrison Artillery. Brig. Fraser joined the N.P.A.M. in 1920 and became commandant of the 2nd Montreal Regiment. In April, 1940, he enlisted in the active force and was appointed commanding Royal Artillery of a Canadian Division and went overseas in the Summer of that year. After his return to Canada in February, 1942, Brigadier Fraser was retained and appointed to his present command.

"We are realizing now as never before that if we want to win the war for freedom, if we want social security and a real world peace, if we want freedom from want, freedom from fear and the right to worship God according to our conscience, we must elect men and women to our Parliament who have a different conception of the purpose of life . . . than those who are ruling today elected by the old parties who believe in the principle of making profit for big business."

tion and M. K. Gandhi's support of it.

"Like a clever lawyer, Cripps picked out phrases from Gandhi's statement without reference to the context and tried to prove the Imperialist case," Nehru said.

"This is no time for lawyers' quibbling, and no statesmen who shoulders responsibility can afford to do this."

Nehru emphasized that India's defence was the main consideration before the Congress, and that Indians would suffer most if there were an invasion.

"It is beyond measure that Cripps should allow himself to become a devil's advocate. He thus injured Indo-British relations more than any other Englishman could have done," he added.

The resolution, published by the working committee of the party early this month, proposes the withdrawal of British rule from India, and adds that the committee does not desire to embarrass Great Britain or the Allied Powers in prosecution of the war, or in any way to encourage aggression against India or pressure on China by Japan or any other Axis power.

Nehru said "the resolution is clear enough, and if people refuse to understand it, this simply shows they do not want to understand."

"I have watch them develop their alleged fishing industry in our waters and was certain it was for other purposes than commercial fishing. My record and my statements for the last ten years on the Jap question are public and my position has now been proven as justified.

"I was against selling Japs scrap iron and other war materials, and voted accordingly in the Senate.

"The Japs are and have been our greatest menace. We on the Pacific Coast know the dangers from Jap occupation of the Aleutian Islands. We have to drive the Japs out of Kiska and Attu immediately.

"There is no time to sit back and figure that they're going to attack Siberia and we're in no danger. We must get them out of there as quickly as possible. Just how soon that will be, we hope to learn on our trip."

SEARCHING FOR MORE 'CHUTISTS

U.S. Authorities Comb Maryland and Virginia When Landings Reported

BALTIMORE, July 28 (AP).—State and Federal military and police agencies tonight combed sections of Maryland and West Virginia after reports of "parachutists or other objects . . . dropped from unidentified planes"—the second such search in Maryland within the week.

The Third Service Command said a search by state police, the state guard, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and by military intelligence agents was in progress within an approximate fifty-mile radius of Washington, D.C.

A spokesman of the Third Service Command said the search was continuing, but no further information would be forthcoming until something substantial had been found to warrant a statement.

The spokesman, who declined to be quoted by name, said one possible explanation which had been offered by the Eastern Defence Command was that persons were seeking parachutes dropped from meteorological balloons. The command statement reported "no one has been apprehended."

A similar report last week from the vicinity of Elliott City, near Baltimore, proved unfounded.

Following that investigation the Third Service Command issued a statement urging the public to "Look twice, or even three times, before attempting to report on suspicious happenings."

race to bring up more men and material. Both are handicapped: the Axis by the difficulties of withdrawing strength from the Continent of Europe and the Allies by the enormous distances of the supply routes to the Middle East.

The important factor favoring the Allies now is their aerial superiority, with British, South African, Australian and American squadrons constantly striking at the Axis sea-lanes, ground communications and the battle forces themselves.

The enemy's main supply ports of Bengasi, Tobruk and Matruh have been special targets.

Wants State Control Of Wealth, Resources

C.C.F. Convention Approves National Council Programme for "Victory and Reconstruction"—Conscription Goes Back for Amendment

TORONTO, July 28 (CP).—Delegates to the tenth anniversary convention of the C.C.F. today approved in general its National Council's programme for "victory and reconstruction," but sent back several clauses for revision, one of them dealing with the conscription of manpower.

The conscription clause, one of several dealing with "mobilization for total war," called for "the selective use of our manpower, whether in productive or military services, as part of a unified plan for the conscription of wealth and other resources."

WEALTH AND RESOURCES

The suggestion to the National Council, as the clause was referred back, was that it should make it more clear that the C.C.F. programme would not embody conscription for military service or work in industry until wealth and other resources were conscripted as well.

The National Council's report, which was read by David Lewis, of Ottawa, national secretary, and later discussed clause by clause, suggested a five-point war policy, a programme for postwar Canada for a programme for world reconstruction after the war.

The convention rejected a proposal for support of a national government while it also took steps to expand the scope of the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement.

In the debate on the conscription clause in the National Council's programme, G. Gagnon, of Montreal, secretary of the Quebec C.C.F., declared that "French-Canada wants to win the war as much as anyone with a soul. But not with the conscription of manpower only; we want equality of sacrifice."

CRITICIZES MITCHELL

During the discussion of the conscription clause, Silby Barrett, of Glace Bay, N.S., charged that the present Minister of Labor, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, "has been advocating company unions," and that Prime Minister Mackenzie King was unfriendly to labor.

Mr. Barrett said that when he and other labor men met Mr. King to ask him to use his influence to prevent discrimination against men who had taken part in the Kirkland Lake Gold Mines strike during the Winter months they were told they could only have ten minutes with the Prime Minister.

"When we put the question to him he answered with a flat 'No'," said Mr. Barrett. "I think it was the first time he said 'No' in his lifetime. All the rest of his life he has been a 'Yes' man."

POSTWAR WORKS

Looking to postwar Canada, the report called for planning to utilize productive capacity for peacetime purposes. "Never again should we allow the pretence of poverty or lack of money stand in the way of social reconstruction."

Major plans proposed for introduction after the war included: Conservation and development of natural resources; a housing programme to eliminate slums; rural rehabilitation; a national social security system; wider opportunities of education for all.

To deal with the problem of postwar world reconstruction, the report proposed establishment of two international councils—one to deal with the rehabilitation of peoples and areas devastated by war and the other to lay plans for a new world association of nations.

vented them from inflicting any concentrated damage.

While the night flyers were able to get off the ground, the bomber fleets were held at home by bad weather over the continent. Today, however, R.A.F. planes, flying singly, attacked points in Germany, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, chief of the Bomber Command, broadcast a grim warning to Germany that "we are going to scourge the third Reich from end to end."

MINIMIZE DAMAGE

His broadcast followed a German broadcast minimizing the damage and casualties in the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raid on Hamburg on Sunday night. The Germans said ninety-nine persons were known to have died and others are missing. They called the raid "a major one," but declared the bombs fell "almost exclusively in residential sections."

Inquisitive Cow Causes Grief for Interior Farmer

The planking gave way, and the cow wasn't rescued until Mr. Cornell had removed more than 1,000 pails of water so that he and his neighbors could get ropes around the bellowing animal and pull her out.

RURAL SCHOOL AREAS UNITED

Consolidation of Nineteen Districts Is Announced by Hon. H. G. Perry

The consolidation of nineteen rural school districts in the Nanaimo and Ladysmith area was announced by H. G. Perry, Minister of Education, yesterday. Action was taken because of the shortage of teachers, the minister said.

The district will be known as the Nanaimo-Ladysmith United Rural School District, and reaching from the outskirts of Ladysmith to Wellington, includes all school districts other than the municipal areas of Ladysmith and Nanaimo. It will be administered by Dr. William Pendlerleith, an official trustee.

The consolidation is one of the largest yet undertaken by the department and unites the following school districts: Brechin, Cedar North, Cedar South, Cedar East, Chase River, Departure Bay, Extension, Diamond Crossing, Harewood, Lantzville, Mountain, Nanaimo Bay, Northfield, Oyster, Oyster North, Red Gap, Waterloo, Wellington and Wellington South.

The move will release twelve qualified teachers for other Vancouver Island schools, and is expected to increase the efficiency of educational facilities and lower the media costs of taxation from 6.29 mills to not more than 5.5 mills, and possibly as low as 5.3 mills, the minister said.

QUIT POST WHEN JAPANESE ARRIVE

Missionary and Family Escape From West Borneo and Make Way To Vancouver

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP).—Rev. J. Arthur Mouw has arrived here to tell his story of escaping from his mission station at Balai-Sepoeak, West Borneo, only a few hours ahead of the invading Japanese.

Mr. and Mrs. Mouw and their two children fled Balai-Sepoeak just ahead of the Japanese when they attacked The Netherlands East Indies. The missionary and his family took their motorboat and headed down river to the coastal city after hearing the Japanese were attacking Borneo.

They found all communications cut, and no Dutch ships. They had to go up-river again to reach another coast town, where they found an old Chinese junk, upon which they sailed to Java.

The Mouws took passage on a ship Soerabaja, escaping attacks by mine layers and Japanese submarines. Eventually they landed at New Orleans, after going through the Panama Canal.

MONTREAL, July 28 (CP).—The appointment of George F. Reid as Crown prosecutor of the Montreal district was announced today from Quebec City. A native Montrealer, Mr. Reid was educated at St. Mary's College and the University of Montreal.

PROPOSE SHORT WORKING WEEK

Ceiling of Forty-Eight Hours Is Recommended by U.S. Government Agencies

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—A ceiling of forty-eight hours weekly—in six eight-hour days—on the working time for millions of men and women employed in war industries was proposed today by eight Government agencies.

The office of War Information announced that such hours had been recommended to war contractors and other war-producing agencies.

"The major effect of the new policy statement on hours," the announcement said, "should be to reduce excessive working hours per week per person, which cannot be sustained without impairing the health and efficiency of workers and reducing the flow of production."

MAJOR STANDARDS

The statement of policy, signed by representatives of the War and Navy Departments, Maritime Commission, Public Health Service, War Manpower Commission, War Production Board, Commerce Department and Labor Department, set forth four major standards, as follows:

1. For wartime production, the eight-hour day and forty-eight-hour week approximate the best working schedule for sustained efficiency in most industrial operations.

2. One scheduled day of rest for the individual, out of approximately every seven, should be a universal and invariable rule.

3. A thirty-minute meal period is desirable.

4. Vacations are conducive to sustained production, and should be spread over the longest possible period.

REFUSED OIL SUPPLY

Danes Everywhere Solidly Back Allies

In Occupied Denmark and in Free Countries They Fight and Work for the United Nations, Says Danish Minister in Address Here

THE one hope of Danes everywhere—Danes who are slaves and Danes who are free—is that victory will come to the United Nations, and it is to this end that they are fighting and toiling, suffering and looking steadfastly forward in occupied Denmark as well as in the free countries of the world.

This is the attitude of the Danes, whose country was invaded on April 9, 1940, by the German armies on the heels of Hitler's assurances that he had no designs on the defenceless little nation. It was interpreted by Hon. Henrik de Kauffman, Danish Minister to the United States, when he addressed a joint luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club and the Kiwanis Club in the Empress Hotel.

HOPING AND PRAYING

"Danes in occupied Denmark, Danes in the free countries of the world and who can express themselves, are all hoping and praying for one thing—victory for the United Nations, victory for Canada and her Allies," declared the minister.

Mr. De Kauffmann, who was accompanied by Mme. De Kauffmann, described events leading up to the German occupation of his country—a sorry story of subterfuge and deceit, broken promises and torn up treaties.

"Norway has a government in exile, Denmark has none," he explained. "Our Government has a certain liberty of action in minor matters, but in all large questions it is Hitler who dictates."

In some cases, he said, rule is by suggestion, "and a German invitation to do something is a request you cannot decline."

From the day of his country's capitulation Mr. De Kauffmann's path of duty has been in an entirely different direction from that conceived by the overlords of Denmark. He has repeatedly incurred their displeasure by his activity in America.

REFUSED DISMISSAL

"From the day of the invasion I considered it my duty to carry out my work, not as Mr. Hitler wanted it, but as my people would want me to do my work if they were free," the tall, slim minister explained in perfect English. Mr. De Kauffman told about himself and his work, occasionally hesitating and running brown fingers through his iron grey hair. "I made it quite clear that I would not recognize any dismissal."

But his negotiation of the agreement that gave the United States strategic bases in Greenland, in April, 1941, was the final, intolerable act, and the German Government lost all patience. Exasperated, the Nazis ordered a telegram sent to him next day in Washington.

"That was too much for Mr. Hitler," the minister explained. "Next day I was dismissed, recalled, my property seized and I was no longer Minister to Washington."

HAS CARRIED ON

But that did not alter the situation, he said, for he has carried on ever since.

"I am a disobedient Danish diplomat who refused to be dismissed."

In thanking the speaker, Hon. H. G. Perry, Minister of Education, described his action in the Greenland negotiation as "stern and strong, and one which will stand out as a beacon light in history."

"In making a profound decision which has had a vitally beneficial effect on the course of the war, he proved himself a man of iron, not of wood," asserted Mr. Perry.

The speaker was introduced by Alistair Campbell, president of the Kiwanis Club, and G. H. Gowan, president of the Canadian Club. Members of the Provincial Cabinet were guests at the luncheon.

DEBATE ON HONGKONG

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP).—Material from the letter, criticizing the Hongkong report, written by Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, which the Prime Minister refused to table, got into the House of Commons records today in an interchange between Dr. H. A. Bruce (Conservative, Toronto-Parkdale) and Justice Minister St. Laurent.

The minister quoted from The Vancouver News-Herald's report (July 15) of the letter from Colonel Drew in replying to comments of Dr. Bruce regarding "prostitution" of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in obtaining evidence from Vancouver stevedores.

Dr. Bruce had referred to the use of police in gathering evidence in Vancouver regarding the non-arrival of certain mechanical transport in time to sail with the Canadian expedition to Hongkong last October 27.

He was stopped by Speaker Glen, who has ruled against use of any evidence except that contained in the commission report.

RIGHT TO REPLY

But the Speaker ruled that the Justice Minister had a right to reply to Dr. Bruce's remarks.

Colonel Drew's letter, as reported in the Vancouver paper, was referred to by the minister as having asserted that "the Minister of Justice had prostituted the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the search conducted in Vancouver for evidence the letter called favorable to the Government." Colonel Drew was a commission counsel at the Hongkong inquiry.

Mr. St. Laurent said the R.C.M.P. had been used to obtain information from Vancouver stevedores on authority of his deputy minister (F. P. Varcoe) and he knew nothing of the incident until "just before" the report appeared in the Vancouver paper.

"If Mr. Varcoe had informed me when he got Mr. Kellock's (R. L. Kellock, counsel to the Duff Commission) request, I would have felt it proper to take the action which was taken, and I take full responsibility for the action which was taken by my department," the minister said.

The letter written by Colonel Drew, who was nominated as counsel to the Duff Commission by Conservative House Leader Hanson, was dated July 11.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King refused to table it in the House on the advice of G. A. Campbell, K.C., Montreal, Government counsel to the commission, that it contained information which was revealed to the commission in secret.

The press censors subsequently advised they could not approve publication of the letter.

NO ATTACK INTENDED

After Mr. St. Laurent had completed his version of the police participation in the inquiry, Dr. Bruce said that he had been quoting from the Drew letter and that he was not making any attack upon the minister.

This incident was the highlight of the day's debate in which other participants were Ross Macdonald (Liberal, Brantford City); Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross (Conservative, Souris); J. S. Roy (Independent, Gaspe); G. R. Boucher (Conservative, Carleton); T. L. Church (Conservative, Toronto-Broadview); Jean Francois Pouliot (Liberal, Temiscouata); G. G. McGeer (Liberal, Vancouver-Burrard), and Navy Minister Macdonald.

A feature of Mr. Pouliot's speech was his recommendation that Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, a former House of Commons supporter of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, be appointed Minister of National Defence with authority over all three branches of the armed forces.

Dr. Bruce ran into considerable difficulty with Speaker Glen when he described as "reprehensible" the report of the Royal Commissioner in "refusing to accept the evidence of Mr. Cooke" (F. B. Cooke, agent for the Awatea which carried the contingent to Hongkong.)

Speaker Glen had this comment withdrawn and refused to permit the substitution of the words "incorrect" and "inaccurate" as applied to the report, because it was a reflection upon the commissioner, Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff.

QUERIES CREW ABOUT PANAMA

German Submarine Skipper Wanted to Know if Ship Through Canal

A UNITED STATES GULF COAST PORT, July 28 (AP).—While machine-guns were trained on survivors of a United States cargo ship sunk July 12 in the Caribbean, a tanned Axis submarine commander questioned them about the Panama Canal, but gained no information, the navy revealed here today.

Five crew members died among the nine aboard after a torpedo struck near the after part of the vessel, tearing the stern away. The torpedoing previously had been made public by the Mexican Government and details were obtained after members of the crew had arrived here from Mexico.

Sverre Gram, master of the ship, said that as the survivors were rowing away from the abandoned vessel, the sub surfaced and approached their lifeboats with guns trained and demanded to know whether the vessel had passed through the Panama Canal.

The master answered in the negative and the submarine officer dropped the subject.

INVESTIGATIONS ARE CRITICIZED

Senator Says They Cause Delay of Canada's War Effort

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP).—Investigations which delay Canada's war effort were criticized by Senator C. B. Howard (Lib., Quebec) in the Senate today.

"I sometimes wonder if we are fighting George Drew (Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader) or the Japs," he said, referring to the Hongkong inquiry conducted by Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff.

Canada's production of Bren guns had been delayed six months by an investigation brought about by Col. Drew, said Senator Howard, adding:

"I wonder if, when the war changes, as it will within the next year—if after every battle, whether we lose or win—we are going to be faced with an investigation."

Senator Howard spoke in the debate on second reading of the Government's Bill 80 to amend the National Resources Mobilization Bill allowing conscription for overseas service by order in council.

EVIDENCE OF ABILITY

Gun production at Sorel, Que., was evidence of the ability of the French-Canadian people, in proportion to her population Canada had made a greater contribution to the cause of the Allied nations than any other country.

If there was any misunderstanding in Canada, it was because the people did not understand one another. French-Canadians were a loyal people, but resented compulsion in any form.

While he favored the voluntary system, Senator Howard said, he would support conscription if it were essential to victory, and he would vote for the bill, confident in the leadership of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

CANADIANS IN SORRY PLIGHT

Passengers on Asama Say Men in Hongkong Need Many Things

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 24 (Delayed) (CP).—Passengers who boarded the Japanese steamship Asama Maru after being interned following the fall of Hongkong said today that the plight of Canadian troops taken prisoner there was just as desperate as that of Americans interned in the Zentaugi Barracks in Japan, where medicines, food and clothing were most vital needs.

E. D. McGreer, secretary to the Canadian Legation in Tokio at the time of Japan's offensive against the United Nations, refused to comment on either the treatment accorded Canadian prisoners or that accorded himself and his staff during their internment, holding that this was neither the time nor place for such comment.

Passengers said they understood the Canadian troops at Hongkong made the most valiant stand of any of the defenders with resulting heavy casualties.

HELD TO GROUND

In the face of superior numbers of Japanese they doggedly held their ground, retreating virtually foot by foot to the Stanley Point battleground, it was said.

Finally, trapped in a hopeless position at the end of Stanley Point, they surrendered.

Estimates of the dead and wounded among the Canadians vary from 50 per cent of the total of 2,200 to well over 60 per cent.

The Canadian contingent to Hongkong numbered 1,985 officers and men. Information relayed to Canada from Japan by way of Argentina, last February, was that Canadian prisoners of war taken at Hongkong totaled 1,789, and from that it has been calculated that 296 were dead or missing. Following that announcement, a few Canadians were reported to have died in custody. There has been no estimate of the number wounded.

McGreer, asked to describe his treatment and that of his staff of seven persons before they were placed aboard the Asama Maru, said: "I don't think it appropriate to make any statement until I return to the Dominion."

However, it was learned that the whole staff had been under strict supervision during the internment period and that they were closely confined inside the legation grounds.

SECURED FOOD

McGreer said he was not permitted outside the grounds without an accompanying officer, but added that the Japanese made every effort to obtain adequate food for the staff and did obtain food which he understood was much better than that available to the Japanese.

The secretary of his staff was taken for weekly walks with a uniformed officer strolling alongside.

Although he declined to comment on the Japanese treatment of Canadians at Hongkong, McGreer was known to have held long conferences with Paul McLane, Canadian Trade Commissioner, after McLane boarded the Asama Maru at Hongkong.

A box of books which McGreer brought from Tokio for the Canadian prisoners was not unloaded at Hongkong, because it was jammed in the hold of the ship and could not be reached without a great amount of cargo shifting.

The strictness of Japanese supervision of the repatriates was exemplified by their refusal to let McGreer ashore at Saigon, French Indo-China, to visit a cousin.

During McGreer's wait at Lourenco Marques he was visited and entertained by Dr. H. Henri Laureys, Canadian High Commissioner to the Union of South Africa.

Falling Tree Kills Two on Duncan Road

A tree, falling on the car in which they were proceeding from Duncan to Cowichan Lake, yesterday afternoon killed two Duncan youths.

The dead are Kenneth Saunders, twenty, and Rodney Marsh, sixteen.

The accident occurred at 3:15 about twelve miles west of Duncan on the Cowichan Lake Road where workmen of the Provincial Forestry Branch were felling dangerous snags. The tree on which they were working toppled over across the road just as the automobile was passing.

The victims were taken to Duncan Hospital by Mrs. George Robbins of Skutz Falls in her automobile, but died en route.

Pending the result of a coroner's inquest Provincial Police have taken in charge two Mennonites who were felling the trees. They are Jake Freisen and Jacob Freisen, who are unrelated.

SENATOR McRAE SUPPORTS BILL

Says Conscription Essential To Provide Men Needed For Reinforcements

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP).—Conscription is essential to provide men required as reinforcements for Canadian forces overseas, Senator A. D. McRae (Con., British Columbia) said in the Senate today.

Senator McRae was one of four members of the Upper House who participated today in the debate on Bill 80—the amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act which will open the way for overseas conscription.

Senator Arthur Sauve (Con., Quebec) and Senator Elie Beauregard (Lib., Quebec) opposed the bill. Senator C. B. Howard (Lib., Quebec) said he favored the voluntary system but would vote for the bill.

Senator Howard suggested cooperation of newspaper publishers should be enlisted to halt attacks in French language papers on English-speaking Canadians, and attacks in English papers on French-Canadians.

While he favored the voluntary system, Senator Howard said he would be prepared to support conscription if it were essential to victory, and he would vote for the bill confident in the leadership of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Senator McRae said he would vote for the bill because he thought conscription was essential as a backlog for selective service.

CAUSING CONCERN

Young men earning high wages in war industries were largely responsible for increased liquor sales, which were causing some concern. It would be almost impossible to get these men to leave their positions without compulsion. Selective service should be made effective regardless of age or sex.

Figures given by Defence Minister Ralston indicated overseas reserves totaled about 15,000. Senator McRae said. This was quite insufficient.

Conscription could not be made effective overnight, and at least eight months' training was necessary for overseas service. Canada's position was precarious and men could only be provided through conscription.

The Government already had authority in the vote on the bill in the Commons to introduce conscription. By returning to Parliament for a vote of confidence more time would be lost—time which could not be afforded in time of emergency.

A GREATER NEED

Senator Sauve, speaking in French, said conscription would be a betrayal of Canada and Canadians. There was a greater need for Canadians to produce food and munitions than there was for increased armed forces from Canada.

The Government's conscription measure lacked frankness and courage, and violated a compromise made within the Liberal Cabinet at the time of the 1939 Quebec provincial election.

"Our attitude is based upon a constant opposition to military imperialism since it was fought by English-speaking as well as French-speaking leaders both in England and in Canada," he said. "This attitude is built upon strictly Canadian principles."

Senator Beauregard said that in giving aid to the Allied Nations on distant battlefronts, ship tonnage and transportation was the major problem rather than armed forces. Conscription could be used to meet needs of home defence and requirements for overseas service could be filled by voluntary enlistments.

LONDON, July 28 (CP).—The first all-Norwegian motor torpedo-boat flotilla is being formed.

Up to the present officers and men of the Norwegian navy have been serving with mixed flotillas.

LAUNCHED AT WEEK-END

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP).—Workmen today were busy on the superstructure of another of the 10,000-ton freighters being built on the West Coast. The ship floated at her moorings here today after a launching over the week-end, when she was named the Fort Norman.

NAVY MINISTER LAST SPEAKER

Comes to Support of Minister of National Defence In Debate

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP).—Navy Minister Macdonald told the House of Commons tonight that if the Canadian expeditionary force sent to Hongkong last October 27 had been held up because of the imminence of war with Japan, "all the commotion that we are going through today would have been as nothing compared with what would have happened."

Mr. Macdonald was the last speaker in the two-day debate on the Duff Commission report on the handling of the Hongkong expedition.

"Honorable gentlemen have been urging that troops be sent to every part of the globe," Mr. Macdonald said. "They have been advocating conscription for overseas in order that more troops be sent overseas . . .

TALK AND COMMOTION

"When we send 2,000 troops to Hongkong there is all this talk and commotion. I say it would have been accentuated a thousand-fold if we had not done what we did . . . If we had to do the same thing over again I am sure we would take exactly the same course."

He said the amendment's main purpose was to criticize the Defence Department.

"I am not here to beg mercy for anybody," he said, "and least of all need I ask it for the Minister of National Defence (Colonel J. L. Ralston) . . .

"I am sure if the Minister of National Defence for Air (Major C. G. Power) were here he would support me to the full. As compared with our distinguished colleague, the Minister of National Defence, the Minister of National Defence for Air and myself have had easy times.

TWO YEARS' CRITICISM

"We have had no great difficulty in getting men. The air force is fighting, the navy is fighting, but the Minister of National Defence has had to contend for over two years with criticism from every part of this country against the methods of his department.

"Why is not the army fighting, why are they not doing this and that? The fact that they are not fighting is not the fault of the Canadian Army and it is certainly not the fault of the Minister of National Defence."

Howard Green (Conservative, Vancouver South) had said the report had shown a lack of understanding of the Pacific situation while Rev. T. C. Douglas (C.C.F., Weyburn) had said the United States knew hostilities were probable when the Hongkong expedition was being prepared.

REFERS TO REPORT

Mr. Macdonald referred to the United States Roberts report on the Pearl Harbor attack. This report said that on October 16 the United States commanding general in the Hawaiian section and the fleet officer commanding were advised of the change in the Japanese Government which installed Tojo as premier, and were informed of the probability of hostilities between the Japanese and Russia and the possibility of an attack by Japan on the United States and Britain.

Members had referred to telegrams from the British War Office quoted in part in the report of the Hongkong inquiry, and had suggested important information was hidden. But the part given in the report showed the British consensus was that war with Japan was unlikely.

were dropped on the city, and afterwards some of the world's heaviest aerial bombs. The much battered port was heavily damaged despite the fact that it is now the most formidably defended place in Germany.

Rome radio reports casualties are likely to be especially great.

Another limited offensive has been begun by General Auchinleck in Egypt and some territory and prisoners captured. The Royal Air Force's superiority continues to be demonstrated. In one battle the Royal Air Force's fighters outnumbered four to one routed thirty Stuka dive bombers just as they were about to drop bombs.

Bombing Tobruk continues with some United States aircraft assisting. In Crete, where the Axis have been concentrating aircraft recently, the aerodrome at Heraklion has been bombed and seven machines on the runway badly damaged.

Terrifying stories of Japanese cruelty to British, Canadians and Americans in Hongkong, Shanghai and elsewhere are reported from Lourenco Marques by a special correspondent of The Times, who has arrived here and met Europeans evacuated from far eastern war zones. Missionaries, newspapermen and businessmen have been tortured, British and Canadian soldiers massacred, British women and girls, including nurses, raped and murdered. Twelve prominent British businessmen killed themselves after torture, and one missionary died mad in an asylum. In Hongkong, after two weeks' shelling and bombing, British and American residents had to watch the massacre of British and Canadian troops. The Japanese refused to give any quarter and bayonetted and beheaded their captives, including wounded soldiers in hospital. Three British volunteer nurses are known to have been raped, killed and burned. Many British civilians were imprisoned in Chinese brothels and left with little food. Fourteen died virtually from starvation. Torture applied to missionaries was to truss them, stand them on their heads and pour buckets of water into their mouths and noses.

POLES GIVEN AWARDS

LONDON, July 28 (CP).—Fifty-two officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the Polish army in Scotland have been awarded Certificates of Merit for bravery by the commander-in-chief of the British Home Forces. The awards were for rescue work and fire fighting in air raids in London, Glasgow and elsewhere.

BUTTER is four Pats a Week in Britain

HITLER chose "Guns instead of butter." So the Nazis have guns! We must catch up . . . and beat them.

They tortured people to make them save. We must save willingly.

So it's up to us, each one of us, to economize of our own free will . . . buy War Savings Stamps and Certificates so that we can outstrip our enemies with planes and tanks and guns and ships . . . we must do more than merely meet the small requirements for compulsory saving. We must supply nearly half the money needed for the war—voluntarily.

Women must help by economizing in the kitchen, by patching and darning, by shopping carefully and cutting out waste. Make up your mind now to buy one, two, five or more War Savings Stamps every week. You can. You must!

Buy War Savings Stamps from banks, post offices, telephone offices, department stores, druggists, grocers, tobacconists, book stores and other retail stores. Certificates may be purchased for immediate delivery in denominations of $5, $10, $25, from Banks, Trust Companies and Post Offices.

RUSSIA'S DARKENING DAYS

The peril to Russia grows greater with each succeeding day. The fall of Rostov marks a new milestone of success in the great German offensive now under way. The enemy is driving across the Don towards the Volga and Stalingrad. His objective in attempting to drive a wedge between the army of Marshal Timoshenko and the main Russian line is being carried on relentlessly. Where the main force of his offensive is in progress the Russians admit that they are heavily outnumbered, a situation that can only be explained as due to the large losses they have suffered. The Germans, too, are experiencing severe casualties, but they seem to have the ability to replace these at will and again and again it is stated that they have a million men engaged on the southern flank of the Eastern Front. Their present advance is being accomplished with a prodigious weight of men and metal, illustrative of the tremendous strength that the Axis Powers still enjoy on land and a warning to the United Nations of the man-power and mechanical equipment that must ultimately be brought into the field to achieve victory.

No one can forecast what will happen if Germany is successful in isolating the Caucasus, as may well happen if Stalingrad is captured and the line of the Volga reached from there to where it empties into the Caspian Sea. The likelihood is that in such an eventuality the oil resources of the Caucasus could not be defended successfully, for the area containing them would be isolated from aid from the rest of the Russian front. The enemy, too, might well attempt to outflank the whole Russian line by a drive northwards while at the same time opening new offensives in the directions of Leningrad and Moscow. Obviously the main purpose of the German High Command is to deliver such shattering blows that the Russians will be brought to an impasse where they would sue for peace. The hope is that under any circumstances this would not happen, but what has to be taken into consideration is that with the loss of the great grain-producing Ukraine, Russia faces perhaps starvation, while the loss of the Caucasian oilfields would most seriously hamper her ability to carry on mechanical warfare.

The present situation, therefore, is as serious as any that has developed since Russia was attacked by the Axis Powers. It is the subject which at the moment dwarfs all other considerations in the military councils of London and Washington. There are those who believe that the opening of a new front in Europe would relieve the pressure on the Russian armies. There could be no guarantee of this. It is mostly wishful thinking, perhaps due to ignorance of the strength of the Axis war machine, and those who think so, too, have not taken time to measure up the immense depletion of tonnage suffered by the United Nations, a depletion which replacements have not yet succeeded in overtaking.

It is insufficient tonnage that prevents the Imperial Army from having overwhelming superiority in man-power and mechanized equipment in the present battle of Egypt. It is lack of tonnage that has, so far, prevented the United Nations from taking the offensive in the Pacific and recovering the territories lost to Japan. To open up a new front in Europe would be an immense and perilous task for sea lanes of communication would have to be maintained and against devastating attacks from the air. If success in that direction is to be assured it is not public clamor but military wisdom that must decide when the time is ripe.

PARLIAMENTARY INEPTITUDE

The post mortem in Parliament over the Hongkong affair was conducted in the absence of the body; the Royal Commission which delved into the subject was similarly handicapped. Only those officers and men who are now prisoners of the Japanese could tell the truth of how badly they were handicapped in the part they played in the defence of the Oriental port. The statement in the House of Commons given by the Minister of National Defence does not clear up the situation. Instead of, as would have been the manly course, taking the whole blame on himself as the responsible Minister, he alluded to certain changes that had been made in the Headquarters Staff. He gave no indication of where the actual responsibility lies for sending some untrained men with the Hongkong expeditionary units and for failure to dispatch their mechanized equipment with those units. Mr. Ralston says: "We certainly have learned some lessons from Hongkong. I have no illusions that Hongkong was a perfect job." He added that it was a "tremendous task" and had been successful to a "considerable degree."

Instead of being a "tremendous task," the dispatch of two regiments to Hongkong, at a time when Canada was not at war with Japan, was a minor military movement. This country had been engaged in warlike preparations for over two years and it should have been a simple matter to bring two regiments up to full strength with adequately trained men. The mechanical equipment to accompany them was available but there was delay in its assembly and it was not ready in time to accompany the regiments. It never reached Hongkong, therefore the Canadian troops there, unless they were supplied with such equipment on their arrival by the British forces, fought under a handicap, and one for which the Department of National Defence of this country must accept the responsibility and the blame.

Parliament was hamstrung in debating the Hongkong incident. The Government will not permit the country to learn what was the full evidence given before the Royal Commission. It refused to permit the debate to deal with Colonel George Drew's letter to Mr. Mackenzie King, although the text of that letter is in the possession of newspaper offices throughout the Dominion and also in the hands of several politicians. The fact is that censorship has fallen with a heavy hand on Parliament itself. It is no longer a free, deliberative assembly. It has not before it in the Hongkong debate the opportunity of rendering a decision on how the conduct of the Department of National Defence should be improved, because information on that very subject is being withheld through censorship imposed by the Government. Here is another instance in which Parliament has abdicated its authority. It is an illustration, as well, of how oligarchial power is being exercised by the Administration under the War Measures Act. Instead of being the great council of the nation empowered to effect desirable reforms in the political and social system, the Parliament at Ottawa is allowing its rights to be trampled upon, for otherwise it would have insisted upon having all the facts in its possession when debating the circumstances surrounding the dispatch of Canadian troops to Hongkong.

A SOCIAL EXPERIMENT

While under the stress of wartime production, with a growing demand for every type of armament, munitions and weapons, the test will not likely be made, the ideal work-week for human agencies has yet to be discovered and applied. It will not be a seven-day week, if efficiency, endurance and common ability to keep going are taken into account. In certain types of heavy industry it may not even be a six-day week, but some shorter period at which efficiency can be maintained without impairment to human health.

Comparison of a seven-day work-week, with swing shifts on the seventh day, with a five-day week with regular staffs, each working in their own department, over a sufficient period of several months might indicate some surprising results. The gap between the anticipated outputs in both cases might be much closer than would appear on the surface. The quality of production might also show a marked difference, as would the unit cost of production and the health and well-being of those employed. In each occupation, no doubt, there would be a slightly different result, but a mean, too, would appear.

It is not likely in the present emergency that the experiment will be really made, or that any considerable change would follow results ascertained by test in that manner. It is in the future, however, that such a decision must be faced, if man is not to become a slave to the machine he has created with his own hands. Certain it is that no human being may work continually without intermission or rest.

TOMORROW'S HEIR

Lee Thomas, aged two years and a few months, is an upstanding citizen of the United States, and a much traveled young man to boot. His father is a customs officer at Hawaii, and his grandparents live at Washington, D.C. Already Lee has flown as an independent and self-managing passenger once across the North American continent, and twice between San Francisco and Pearl Harbor, which is to say nearly half-way around the globe.

The New York Times, in a recent issue, printed an illustration showing Lee standing on the shore-going gangway of a trans-continental plane, midway in his most recent air journey from Hawaii to Washington, D.C. Poised and collected, the young man is standing with one arm raised in a salute to his native land, and a great, broad chuckle, welling up from somewhere as deep as his toes. In his other hand is a small airlines duffle bag, with his personal effects and "gear."

Lee Thomas is symbolic of the age in which he lives. He, too, has a chance of becoming President of the United States of America, if he wants to set his cap at that. He may be a physician, or surgeon, or engineer, or scientist, or anything else that may seem good to him when he reaches a state of manhood. For Lee, like so many other young fellows between the ages of two and three, is all tomorrow's heir. Moreover, he has flown nearly half-way around his world before he is three. That is a flying start for any up and coming young man.

A CHILD'S LAUGHTER

All the bells of heaven may ring,
All the birds of heaven may sing,
All the wells of earth may spring,
All the winds on earth may bring
All sweets sounds together;
Sweeter far than all things heard,
Hand of harper, tone of bird,
Sound of woods at sundown stirred,
Welling water's winsome word,
Wind in warm wan weather.

One thing yet there is, that none
Hearing ere its chime be done
Knows not well the sweetest one
Heard of man beenath the sun,
Hoped in heaven hereafter;
Soft and strong, and loud and light,
Very sound of very light,
Heard from morning's rosiest height,
When the soul of all delight
Fills a child's clear laughter.

Golden bells of welcome rolled
Never forth such notes, nor told
Hours so blithe in tones so bold
As the radiant mouth of gold
Here that rings forth heaven.
If the golden crested wren
Were a nightingale—why then
Something seen and heard of men
Might be half as sweet as when Laughs a child of seven.

—Algernon Charles Swinburne.

SCOTLAND

O Caledonia! stern and wild,
Meet nurse for a poetic child!
Land of brown heath and shaggy wood,
Land of the mountain and the flood,
Land of my sires! what mortal hand
Can e'er untie the filial band
That knits me to thy rugged strand?
Still, as I view each well-known scene,
Think what is now, and what hath been,
Seems as, to me, of all bereft,
Sole friends thy woods and streams were left;
And thus I love them better still,
Even in extremity of ill.
By Yarrow's stream still let me stray,
Though none should guide my feeble way;
Still feel the breeze down Ettrick break,
Although it chill my withered cheek;
Still lay my head by Teviot stone,
Though there, forgotten and alone,
The bard, may draw his parting groan.

—Sir Walter Scott.

INVOCATION TO SLEEP

Come, Sleep, and with thy sweet deceiving
Lock me in delight awhile;
Let some pleasing dreams beguile
All my fancies, that from thence
I may feel an influence,
All my powers of care bereaving!

Though but a shadow, but a sliding,
Let me know some little joy!
We that suffer long annoy
Are contented with a thought,
Through an idle fancy wrought:
O, let my joys have some abiding!

—Beaumont and Fletcher.

New Premier Stresses Turkey's Neutrality

By HENRY J. TAYLOR
North American Newspaper Alliance

ANKARA, Turkey (By Wireless). —As a kindness to an American traveler who had come so far to see him, Shukru Saracoglu, Premier and Foreign Minister of the Republic of Turkey, granted me the first exclusive interview since his assumption of the premiership a fortnight ago.

Our meeting took place in the Premier's office on the second floor of the Presidency, a modernistic, imposing building commanding a sweeping view of the late President, Kemal Ataturk's Anatolian capital.

Premier Saracoglu sat at a large flat-topped desk. He arose and extended a warm greeting as I entered.

"You have come a very long way," he said. "I understand you have come all this great distance by air." He motioned me over to a globe standing in a far corner of the room. "Show me how you came."

I traced the route for the Premier, who interrupted to ask how it seemed to be flying the Atlantic, whether I had seen any big game from the air in Central Africa, each detail of my voyage.

"That is an adventure I would like to have myself some day," he said.

DESERT BATTLES

The Premier showed great interest in what I had seen of the battle of the Western Desert, and he was apparently quite familiar with the political and military situation in Egypt.

Premier Saracoglu is fifty, a short, stocky man with keen brown eyes and a very pleasing manner, a manner which tends to lead you out and makes you feel, as you speak, that he would like to agree with you if he could.

I told him that, while it was assumed there would be no change in Turkey's foreign policy since the sad death of Dr. Refik Saydam on July 7, I felt that a statement by him to that effect would be welcome reassurance to a world whose eyes are now centred on Turkey and the Middle East.

"Neutrality is the keystone of Turkish policy," Mr. Saracoglu said. "There will be no change in this national aim, to which this Government has consistently and vigorously dedicated itself since the beginning of hostilities.

"For those who live a great distance away it is difficult to realize the serious problems which confront a country such as ours, enmeshed in a great belligerent area. Our home industry, to which we have devoted such great efforts since the foundation of the new Turkey, has been painfully demoralized by this awful conflict. Our agriculture has suffered grievously. Almost all the international commerce on which so many of our Turkish people depend has been disrupted, and it is a tragic mistake to view this war as anything but a catastrophe, in which it is difficult for this country to survive.

"In this melee we dedicate ourselves to neutrality, and any implication which ignores this ignores the fundamentals of Turkish intentions and Turkish honor."

IS WELL LIKED

There is nothing stiff or studied about Premier Saracoglu as he speaks. We had moved over to a coffee table near a balcony overlooking the lovely hills of Ankara and, with typical Turkish courtesy, he had offered me the rich brew of his country. Anyone would like this man. He is forthright, and when he moves about the city of Ankara he is greeted on all sides by Turks and foreigners alike who know him for his plainness and his refusal to bury himself in the atmosphere of his office.

Shukru Saracoglu deals in the only currency good the world over —absolute naturalness.

"You will have a long trip home and I wish you Godspeed and an early return to Turkey," he said as I left. "Whatever your country can know of our problems and of our determination to meet them with high honor will be appreciated by every friend of the new Turkey, to the neutrality of which we here have dedicated our lives as free Turks."

According to Drew Pearson, Washington columnist, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel studied military strategy in the United States . . . Old Country rations per person per week are bacon and ham, four ounces; butter and margarine, six ounces; cooking fat, two ounces; sugar, eight ounces; tea, two ounces; cheese, three ounces, and preserves, one pound per month . . . A British Stirling bomber with four engines and a crew of eight men requires fifty-six men to fly and service. In addition to a crew of eight there is one meteorological officer, one parachute packer, one flight control officer, twelve members of the flight maintenance crew, eighteen members of the ground service crew, eleven members of the bomb loading team, one bomb tractor driver, one oil truck driver and two members of the gasoline truck crew . . . A new pill manufactured in the United States contains Vitamin C and is supposed to enable persons to withstand Summer heat without discomfort . . . Jack Benny was born Benny Kubelsky . . . One old rubber tire will make eight gas masks, one hot water or steam radiator will make an aerial bomb, 7,700 aluminum pots and pans will make a pursuit plane, one electric iron will make two helmets, one refrigerator will make three machine guns, and 100 pounds of paper will make a carton for thirty-five shells . . . On Pitcairn Island if you kill a cat unless it is positively detected killing chickens you must kill 300 rats and submit the tails to a magistrate, or pay a heavy fine . . . From "The Common Cold" in Pic: "Early in 1918 the Japanese freighter Demarra steamed past Diamond Head, Hawaii, and slipped peacefully beside her wharf. Observers noticed that many of the Japanese seamen had bloodshot eyes and running noses. One of them sneezed. It was a sneeze to be heard 'round the world. According to expert medical opinion it was this common cold imported from Japan that caused the terrible influenza epidemic. Like a raging fire it leaped the 2,000 miles separating Hawaii from the mainland and circled the globe. The malady killed 548,452 persons in the United States, and 20,000,000 ultimately died of it throughout the world."

have done that as far away as Danzig . . . no part of the Reich is safe.

TARGETS OR CITIES

"I will speak frankly to you about whether we bomb single military targets or whole cities.

"Obviously we prefer to hit factories, shipyards and railways. It damages Hitler's war machine most. But those people who work in these plants live close to them. Therefore we hit your homes and you . . .

"Were not aircraft workers and their wives and children at Coventry just as much civilians as the aircraft workers of Rostock and their families? Hitler wanted it that way."

The people of Britain know "quite enough" about air raids, the air marshal said, referring to the ten months Britain stood up under heavy German attacks.

"Then you had a big fleet of bombers," he said. "They bombed London ninety-two nights running. They made heavy raids on Coventry, Plymouth, Liverpool and other British cities. They did a lot of damage. Forty-three thousand British people lost their lives.

NOW ITS THE OTHER WAY

"During all that time we could only send over a small number of aircraft in return. But now it's just the other way.

"Remember this: No matter how far your armies march, they can never get to England . . . Whatever their victories, you will still have to settle the air war with us and America.

"You can never win that.

"But we are doing so already."

The broadcast was in German and then put on the air in more than a dozen other European languages.

"We are bombing Germany city by city and even more terribly in order to make it impossible for you to go on with the war," Harris went on. "That is our object. We shall pursue it remorselessly city by city—Luebeck, Rostock, Cologne, Emden, Bremen, Wilhelmshaven, Duisburg, Hamburg—and the list will grow longer and longer.

"Let the Nazis drag you down to disaster with them if you will. That is for you to decide."

"In comparison with what it will be like as soon as our own production of bombers comes to flood and as American production doubles and then redoubles, all that has happened so far will seem very little," Harris said.

U.S. PRODUCTION

Speaking of United States production, Harris said:

"Every two hours the Ford plant is turning out one four-engined bomber able to carry four tons of bombs to any part of the Reich, and there are scores of other such factories in the United States."

"You have no chance," he told the Germans. "You could not defeat us in 1940, when we were almost unarmed and stood alone.

"Your leaders were crazy to attack Russia as well as America. How can you hope to win now that we are getting ever stronger, having both Russia and America as Allies, while you are getting more and more exhausted?"

Less than 5 per cent of the bombers sent over the Reich are lost, Harris said, and with ever-increasing Allied bomber strength "we are going to scourge the Reich from end to end if you make it necessary for us to do so. You cannot stop it and you know it.

"It is up to you to end the war and the bombing. You can overthrow the Nazis and make peace. It is not true that we plan a peace of revenge . . . but we shall certainly make it impossible for any German Government to start total war again. That is as necessary in your interests as in our own."

Not Reducing Postal Rates

chastity of the clergy of any denomination, the postoffice did not feel it was justified in carrying such mail.

Col. Mulock told Gordon Graydon (Con., Peel) he could give little hope if . . free mail for troops overseas. The boat space available for mail could not accommodate "the deluge" which might be expected. Space already was so limited that on occasion part of a ship's mail load was taken off to make room for more urgent cargo.

Col. Mulock said it was not possible to increase urban deliveries in wartime. It was not so much to save money as to save manpower, and in the face of war sacrifices being made in other directions he did not think it was too much to expect people to accept one delivery a day instead of two.

Paul Martin (Lib., Essex East) urged the minister to extend to men in the Merchant Marine the same free postal privileges as enjoyed by men in the armed forces.

DIFFICULT PROPOSITION

Col. Mulock said this offered a difficult proposition because the free privileges for those in the forces were handled by service postoffices, whereas the Merchant Marine men were scattered all over the world. But he would take up the matter and see if the privilege could not be extended at least to cover the letters sent from Canada to merchant sailors.

A. J. Bence (Con., Saskatoon) questioned the minister on methods of appointing postmasters, asked him if political influence in making appointments would be ended, and if he would produce the R.C.M.P. report of a man selected for the postoffice in Bruno, Sask.

Col. Mulock said it was decided when the last Conservative Government was in power that for postoffices with less than $3,000 a year revenue the appointment would be made by the minister. Such appointments were made now in the same manner as when the Conservative party was in power.

SUGAR SHORTAGE

Although the pact is a wartime emergency measure, Soheily expressed the hope that it would continue after the war in principle.

He said he was anxious to maintain good relations with all Iran's neighbors—Russia, India, Afghanistan, Turkey, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Great Britain.

In reply to a question regarding Iran's attitude toward the adamant stand taken by Mohandas K. Gandhi's All-India Congress, Soheily said:

"The treaty (with the Allies) is the most important part of the Constitution of Iran and we intend to do everything to stand by our allies and their allies. Any state or organization acting against her allies is acting against Iran's interests."

Referring to the large influx of Polish refugees into Iran, the Prime Minister said he would welcome a postwar Polish settlement, providing the Poles now residing here applied for and obtained Persian citizenship.

Pledges Loyalty To Allied Cause

By ARTHUR KAY
(North American Newspaper Alliance)

TEHERAN, Iran (By Wireless).—The Axis drives toward the Caucasus and the Suez Canal have stiffened the courage and backbone of the people of Iran who are determined to give all the help required by the Allies in accordance with the terms of the treaty after Britain and the Soviet Union occupied their country last September, Prime Minister Ali Soheily assured the writer today.

He expressed his admiration for American institutions and said an agreement was about to be signed between the American and Iran Governments through their respective legations in Washington and Teheran, providing for American advisers on economic, financial and food distribution questions. The Prime Minister also said that the Iran police force is being reorganized along American lines and that a high-ranking United States police official would be in charge.

Prime Minister Soheily received me at Gulestan Palace for a half-hour interview. The crowning achievement of his political career has been the signing of the Anglo-Soviet-Iran treaty which was concluded after the Allies occupied Iran to bring a halt to Axis intrigues in the vital Middle East oil fields. Although only forty-six, Soheily has held important Government posts for twenty-four years. He became under-secretary of Foreign Affairs when he was twenty-two, and in 1936 was named to the important post of Minister to Great Britain.

RAPID RISE

On his return he became successively, Foreign Minister, Governor of the Province of Kerman, Ambassador to Afghanistan, Minister of the Interior, Minister of Foreign Affairs and, finally, Prime Minister.

His office is small, barely eight feet by twelve, but furnished in excellent taste. Soheily is tall, about six feet; dark complexioned and well dressed. He told me that he attended a school of political science at Teheran and then studied at Paris and in Russia.

Under the terms of the Anglo-Soviet-Iran treaty, Iran's function is to maintain security internally, while the Allies are charged with defence of the nation's frontiers.

Stay on Jobs Says Leaders

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP)—In a letter to the Vancouver Labor Council tonight, A. S. Mosher and Patrick Conroy, president and secretary respectively of the Canadian Congress of Labor, appealing for war industry workers to "stay on the job" on September 7, Labor Day traditionally celebrated by trade unionists.

The letter said that "Government and employers have discouraged the building of harmonious relationships," but "the job has to be done and maximum production is the most important task facing our country."

SHOWED LIGHTS

HALIFAX, July 28 (CP)—Air raid wardens have laid their first charges in Halifax against four downtown firms who allegedly violated blackout regulations on July 16. Police laid charges against three other firms who were convicted yesterday of showing lights in the same blackout and were fined $25 each.

Let us not look over life to see what we have not but what we have.

No good book or good thing of any sort shows its best face at first.

According to Culbertson

A hand from a recent tournament reveals that the masters sometimes reach "dynamite" contracts, at which only their skill at play, plus considerable luck and some assistance from the opponents, can bring them safely home.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

	NORTH ♠ A Q 6 ♥ A J 8 5 4 ♦ — ♣ K 10 9 8 5
WEST ♠ 10 9 5 ♥ Q 9 3 ♦ J 8 6 ♣ A Q 6 4		EAST ♠ J 7 2 ♥ K 7 2 ♦ K Q 8 3 2 ♣ 7 2
	SOUTH ♠ K 8 4 3 ♥ 10 6 ♦ A 10 7 5 4 ♣ J 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding was very good up to South's four spade bid. Four hearts would have been the sounder choice at this point, although a four hearts contract would have had little "edge" on the four spade contract.

West opened the ten of trumps and, the moment dummy appeared, a cold shiver went over the declarer. Not only was he playing with seven trumps, but the brokenness of North's suits and the lack of communication from one hand to the other, notably North's void in diamonds, would add enormously to "handling difficulties."

The spade ace was put up immediately and a low heart was lead. East was of inestimable help to the declarer when he put up his heart king. His spade jack return was taken by the king (declarer had to get into his own hand) and now the club suit was started, declarer leading the jack with the intention of letting it ride. West, holding both the ace and queen, saw no point in ducking, hence won with the ace and attempted to force dummy's queen of trumps by leading a diamond. But declarer discarded a club from dummy, won with the diamond ace and finessed the heart ten through West, overtaking with dummy's jack. The spade queen now drew the adverse trumps, the hearts were run off, the club king was the ninth trick, and declarer's last trump provided the tenth and fulfilling trick.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily Colonist of July 29, 1892)

The Sound Quarantine—The Puget Sound Quarantine against Victoria has not yet been raised, but strong pressure is being brought to bear on Port Townsend by all neighboring cities, and it is expected that the officials whose word is law will declare the ports open again tomorrow. Consul Myers is now in communication with Washington, in reference to the matter.

They Own the Land—In accordance with the law which requires private roadways to be closed up at least once a year in order to prevent the title passig to the city, Trounce Avenue was yesterday barred at one end, a sign being put up "Positively no admission—private property." The bars will probably come down today and traffic will be resumed as usual. No inconvenience was caused the many who have long used the alley as a thoroughfare, as a man was posted at the bar and it was lifted for each one who wished to pass through.

Looks Like Old Times—The North Pacific had a full passenger list last evening, the majority of the travelers forming the Grafton party, who go to Alaska by the Islander today.

WORKINGMEN ARE WILLING

Victoria Shipbuilders Eager To Build Faster and Better Ships

There has been a lot of talk whisperings and whatnot going the rounds of Victoria since Wartime Shipping started to build cargo ships in local shipyards. Workers have been charged with "laying down on the job" and having little or no patriotism. Questioned about how much truth there might be in these stories, J. H. Ellison, president of the Victoria Shipyard Council, expressed pleasure for the opportunity of presenting the workmen's side of the story.

"When the war came on us," Mr. Ellison stated yesterday, "we were, in a way, through a series of crises, partially prepared for it. But as it continued in all its brutal totality and our merchant ships were sunk and sunk, there was born a universal cry: 'We must have ships and more ships.' Victoria answered the call. New yards were built, machinery and men were placed, soon the clatter of the yards was heard, and for Victoria it was a proud morning in February last when the Ss. Camosun slipped down the launching ways into the sea, the first freighter to be launched here in two decades.

"Quite naturally, the public may not be conversant with the great many crafts necessary to the fabrication and construction of a modern ship. The very multiplicity of these craft, the intricacy and interlocking of the various parts of construction, has either threatened or actually caused bottlenecks. These situations are irritable to the experienced shipbuilders. So these men got together with the firm intention of throttling everything that impeded progress and bolstering up whatever encouraged progress. Eleven unions were represented. They formed themselves into what they called the 'Joint Shipyard Council of Victoria.'

"Could the public and management of the yards sit in at some of these conferences and hear the man-to-man discussions between the various craftsmen as to how this could be bettered or that speeded up, how this obstacle should be straightened out or a favorable suggestion be acted on, they would come to the conclusion that the council is functioning well and good.

HEALTHY CONDITION

"Four months ago our yards were ers were happy. 'Something attempted, something done,' appeared to be their motto. As time passed speed was attained, experience was gained. Skilled men were scarce, but those who were skilled pulled down the age-old barriers that protected all crafts. Helpers were taken on, made into improvers, and then after a few months of intensive training on the job the improvers took their places alongside the craftsmen at the same rates of pay. Any foreman will testify that these young, quickly-trained craftsmen are making good.

"As time went on because of these measures production was bound to advance steadily. The relations between labor and management were and are good. The builders were asked to abolish the five-and-a-half-day week and institute a six-day week. They did without any friction. The scheme worked well. In May, however, came a bombshell. The system which promised so well was to be abolished and in its place a continuous seven-day-week operation, with all men working six days in staggered shifts, adopted. It is not desirable to go into the chaos which resulted, nor how morale was undermined. This is being investigated by the Royal Commission at Vancouver, and we hope will be discussed by the same commission in Victoria. But I do hope the public will come to better appreciate the objects of the Joint Shipyard Council of Victoria. We can assure it that the great majority of the shipyard workers are in this shipbuilding game heart and soul. They want to build ships and more ships, and build them faster and better."

FOUR HUNDRED VESSELS SUNK

Submarines Continue to Take Toll of Merchantmen in Atlantic

By The Associated Press

The toll of merchant shipping sunk by enemy submarines on the very doorstep of the Americas has topped the 400 mark and the Western Atlantic has become the grave of more than 2,000 seamen and passengers since Pearl Harbor.

Figures tabulated by The Associated Press yesterday as they announced or reported wartime sinkings in those waters reached 401 showed that at least 1,620 more crewmen or passengers were missing after attacks by the undersea raiders, while 11,766 persons have been rescued.

For the 400th acknowledged victim, a U-boat chose the smallest fry in the 233 days of their preying on Allied or neutral shipping off American shores—a sixteen-ton onion boat just out of Havana. The sub's crew, apparently running out of rations, helped itself to 40,000 pounds of onions, canned goods and a quantity of Diesel oil from the vessel.

Later yesterday the Mexican Government announced the sinking on Sunday morning in the Gulf of Mexico of the American freighter Oaxaca, for the fifth Mexican victim of the war and the 401st on the grand total of Allied or neutral ships destroyed.

A U.S. GULF COAST PORT, July 28 (AP).—Thirty-six survivors of the Mexican freighter Oaxaca, torpedoed and sunk by a submarine early Sunday off the Gulf Coast, today described a surprise attack which claimed the lives of six members of the crew and seriously injured three others.

The Government-controlled Mexican Navigation Company said the ship was en route to Tampico from New Orleans.

Marco Antonio Demonte, first mate, said there was no premonition of trouble when the ship was struck on the port forward quarter.

The explosion sent a heavy vibration through the whole ship and blew a portion of the bridge and hatch covers into the air. The vessel remained afloat more than an hour.

After the explosion, Demonte saw a submarine silhouetted against a bright moon for a moment and caught a glimpse of it again as the survivors were leaving.

Coast Guard Keeps Ship Lanes Open

Ships pass in the night—and in the daytime as the United States Coast Guard keeps the sea lanes open. This dramatic photograph, made from a coast guard patrol cutter, shows merchantmen heading in opposite directions on the North Atlantic. Coast guardsmen keep an eagle-eyed watch continuously as they escort the convoys.

RAILROADS OFFERING SPECIAL ROUND TRIPS

WINNIPEG, July 28.—Special round trip thirty-day fares to the Pacific Coast for August 14, 15 and 16, and August 28, 29 and 30, have been authorized on both Canadian Pacific and National Railways, according to J. A. Brass, secretary Canadian Passenger Association in the West. These fares, which are good from Fort William and Armstrong, Ont., and west to the Pacific Coast from all points in the Prairie Provinces, are designed to cover the Midsummer and late Summer holiday requirements. They will be available in coach, tourist and standard cars with the usual extra charge for sleeping accommodation in the tourist and standard classes.

Stop-over privileges by means of which the mountain resorts of Banff and Jasper and kindred holiday grounds may be visited, are provided for, so that even in these more vicarious war days change of environment and altitude are made possible for those in need of rest and recuperation.

LOCAL DISLOCATIONS FOR DURATION OF WAR

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman said today that, despite some local dislocations and inconveniences, local train service in the United States probably would be discontinued for the duration of the war in places where duplicating bus service is reasonably adequate.

Disclosing that he had requested state public service commissions to survey local rail and bus passenger service with the view of releasing engines and cars for more important service, Eastman declared that "unnecessary duplicate service must clearly be avoided."

Commuters' trains would not be affected, he indicated.

PAY TRIBUTE TO SHIPS AND MEN

Residents of Northern Port Regret Final Salute as C.N.S. Discontinues Regular Calls

Vessels of the Canadian National Steamships recently discontinued calls at Stewart, in Northern British Columbia, after serving that port for many years. The following report from Stewart, a fine tribute to these ships and their men, was carried in a recent issue of The Prince Rupert News:

"With whistle and siren, Capt. Edward Mabbs, of the Canadian National Steamship Prince George, paid the Canadian National's final salute to Stewart as he pulled away from the Stewart dock. Not a person who stood on the wharf that afternoon but felt a double pang of regret as the Prince George steamed down the canal and away. The loss to the district of the service supplied by the Canadian National regularly since 1920 is a very real loss, but more personal and, therefore, much more poignant, is the breaking of the contact between local residents and the popular officers and crew members of the Canadian National vessels.

"It is safe to say that for many years to come the names of Capt. Dan Donald, Capt. Harry Nedden, Capt. Neil MacLean, Capt. Edward Mabbs, Capt. Dan McKinnon, Alex Munro, W. E. Baillie, Bert Robson, Jack Crawford, Norman MacLean, Jack Hartley, Johnny Walker and many, many others will frequently be mentioned in Stewart homes and in the homes elsewhere of former Stewart residents.

"These men, and the good ships Prince Rupert and Prince George, had become part of the life of this community. The 'big boats' were regarded as much as an institution as a service. All that remains now of this friendly contact is the hope—very genuinely held here—that after the war, with the return of peacetime activities, these ships and their popular personnel will again be regular callers at Stewart."

Although the Stewart call has been discontinued, Canadian National vessels still serve other northern ports on twice-weekly schedules.

IN IMPORTANT POST

EDMONTON, July 28 (CP).—One of the youngest executive members of Canadian Pacific Air Lines, Barney Phillips will be in charge of C.P.A. operations out of Edmonton, Grant McConachie, general manager, announced today.

Mr. Phillips will control dispatches and communications from Vancouver to Fort St. John, Edmonton to White Horse, and Edmonton to Fort McMurray.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

HOW TO SEE PICTURES

Develop a sincere interest in people, study the work of other photographers, and work toward a definite objective, and you'll soon find it's easy to make excellent snapshots like this

JUST the other day a friend of mine who is interested in photography came to me with a question.

"What's all this business about being able to see pictures?" he asked. "Is it something abstract, or is it a definite ability which any photographer can develop?"

Well, I assured him that there is such a thing as an ability to see pictures, and any photographer who wants to develop it can do so in short order. There are just three simple steps.

First, you must study people because you will have to draw upon them for many of your picture subjects. Learn to look upon your friends and acquaintances, as well as people in public, with an appraising eye. Watch the things they do, note the way they sit, walk, talk, and note the effect of light on them from various angles. It will be an interesting experiment and photographically profitable if you try to determine when your subjects would make the best pictures.

Next, study other pictures and try to equal or surpass them. You'll find good material in the popular picture magazines, the photographic magazines, and even general or fashion publications. By studying them you'll keep up with what others are doing, and you'll certainly get many ideas you might apply to your own photography.

Finally, I'd suggest that you give yourself a picture-making objective. That may seem to have no connection with your ability to see pictures, but the point is that when you give yourself something definite to accomplish—or use your camera as a means of telling a story in pictures—then you will find that you "see" pictures far more readily than if you have no particular purpose in mind.

Give yourself an objective today, and start shooting!

—John van Guilder.

NO FORTUNES BEING MADE

Commission Hears Union Agent Tell About Wages Paid Dock Workers

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP).—Charles Saunders, business agent for the Dock and Shipyard Workers' Union, today offered the Richards Commission investigating ship production in British Columbia evidence "to dispel the myth that shipyard workers are making fortunes."

In asking for an advance in wages for the 2,300 members of his union—whom he termed "the lowest paid workers in the shipyards"—Mr. Saunders said that their basic wage is 50 to 55 cents an hour, and more than 1,000 of them are earning less than $25 weekly.

Presentation of the Dock and Shipyard Workers' brief brought the commission within sight of the end of labor representations. The Boilermakers' Union, largest in the shipyards, is among the labor organizations which remain to be heard, but it is expected to avoid repeating evidence already given.

Shipyard operators are expected to present their case in two days. Austin Taylor, vice-president of Wartime Merchant Shipping, Ltd., also is scheduled to appear but the possibility of the commission completing its Vancouver hearings this week is growing.

R.C.A.F. Casualties

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP). — The Royal Canadian Air Force units' 328th casualty list of the war today reported four men killed on active service overseas and five missing after overseas air operations. The overseas section of the list also contained the names of one man who died of injuries suffered on active service; one previously reported missing now is reported killed on active service; one previously reported missing now reported prisoner of war and two previously reported missing now for official purposes presumed dead.

Three men were listed as killed on active service in Canada; one as dead from natural causes in Canada; one as seriously injured on active service in Canada; one as dangerously injured on active service in Canada, and one as seriously ill in Canada. Four men were reported killed on active service in the United States and one as missing after flying operations in the United States. Following is the latest list of casualties with next of kin:

Overseas—Killed on active service: Hilton, William Deveaux Woodruff, Flt. Lt., Barrie, Ont.; Craig, William Warren, Sgt., Newcastle, N.B.; Fruchtl, John George, Sgt., Killarney, Man.; Giddens, Harold Richard, Sgt., Niagara Falls, Ont. Died of injuries sustained on active service: Moher, Lawrence Henry, Sgt., Ottawa. Previously reported missing, now reported killed on active service: Rathwell, Edward Earl, Sgt., Carleton Place, Ont. Missing after air operations: Frith, Robert Arthur, P.O., Toronto; Paradis, Joseph Hubert Roger, P.O., Shawinigan Falls, Que.; Swatridge, Lionel Edward, P.O., Stratford, Ont.; McLachlin, William MacIntyre, Flt. Sgt., Ottawa; Price, George Edward, Sgt., Avon Lake, Ohio. Previously reported missing, now reported prisoner of war: Ralston, James William, Flt. Sgt., St. Stephen, N.B. Previously reported missing, now for official purposes presumed dead: O'Brien, Charles Stuart, Flt. Sgt., Moncton, N.B.; Drinkwater, Kenneth Gordon, Sgt., Birch Cliff, Ont.

Canada—Killed on active service: Bladon, James Stanley, P.O., Portage la Prairie, Man.; Cabush, Gordon Harold, L.A.C., Edmonton (P.O. Bladon and L.A.C. Cabush were killed on July 25 near Dauphin, Man.); Morrison, William Melvin, L.A.C., Pense, Sask. (L.A.C. Morrison was killed on July 25 at Port Albert, Ont.). Died from natural causes: Waller, Bruce Harbar, A.C.2, Hamilton. Seriously injured on active service: Parker, J. E., Sgt., Chingford, Essex, England. Dangerously injured on active service: Ward, Ronald Anthony, A.C.2, Charleswood, Man. Seriously ill: Finlay, James Arthur Douglas, A.C.2, Toronto.

United States of America—Killed on active service: Kerwin, John William, Sqdn. Ldr., Belleville, Ont.; Whiteside, Dean Edward, P.O., Waterville, Kas. (P.O. Whiteside was killed on an operational flight out of Patricia Bay, B.C.); Lennox, Frank Robert, Flt. Sgt., Clifton, N.J.; Maxmen, Stanley Ray, Sgt., Moose Jaw, Sask. Missing after flying operations: Baird, Gordon Douglas Russell, Flt. Sgt., Winnipeg.

WEATHER INTERFERES

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP).—Weather has slowed pilchard fishing and Fraser River salmon fishing is quite slack. Off Point Roberts the big American seiners on Monday averaged thirty sockeyes for twenty boats. Seiners are now shifting to Lummi Island where boats are averaging 200 to 300 sockeyes daily.

The week-end saw Rivers Inlet boats averaging forty fish. Fishing is practically over on Smiths Inlet. Only about 100 boats of the normal 300 remain on those waters.

YARROWS SHOW CHINESE FILM

Shipyard Employees and Citizens See Much-Talked-Of Picture

Sponsored by Yarrows Limited, such a deep impression on all who witnessed the showings in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium on Monday afternoon and evening was repeated for the benefit of such shipyard workers who were unable to attend the first showings and others who were interested in seeing something of the Japanese army in action, the exhibition taking place at the High School auditorium last night.

Another crowded house listened attentively, following brief introductory remarks by F. B. McConnel, public relations representative of Yarrows Limited, to the colorful narrative of W. H. Sutter, who secured the Chinese pictures during the early days of the Japanese invasion. The "Rape of Nanking" was shown in connection with "China at Peace," "Fighting Ships" and the "Bombing of U.S.S. Panay."

Following the conclusion of the picture showing, Frank Sellars, one of Yarrows Limited shop stewards, addressed the gathering at some length on shipyard morale, during which he stressed the importance of greater efforts in the production of steel vessels.

Exhibited for the first times in Canada, the "Rape of Nanking" will probably be shown one or more times in Victoria before it returns for a tour of showings at United States Pacific army camps and air centres, Gordon Stacey, civilian personnel director of H.M.C.S. Dockyard, having made arrangements during the performance last night for another showing this evening, at which dockyard employees will be given an opportunity of viewing it.

Vancouver Flyer Reported Missing

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP).—Sergeant Pilot Paul O. Webster, twenty-two, a Vancouver airman, who twice escaped internment in Eire after being shot down, is now reported missing in air operations on July 24.

Webster, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Webster, of Vancouver, joined the R.C.A.F. two years ago. His plane crashed at sea off the coast of Eire in October, 1941, killing the observer. Webster got his crew into a rubber dinghy and headed for the coast, where they were picked up by an Irish fisherman. Ashore they buried the observer's body and were arrested and interned.

Three months ago the crew attempted mass escape, but were caught and returned to camp. A month later Webster again escaped and made his way to England, where he rejoined his squadron.

For the second time since their son joined the air force, Mr. and Mrs. Webster have been advised that he is missing.

RIVETER SETS RECORD

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP).—A new mark for Canadian shipyard riveters has been set by Johnny Gorenko, riveter in a West Coast shipyard, and his gang.

Gorengo drove 1,226 rivets in a seven-hour, ten-minute graveyard shift. Previous Canadian record was set by B. Hanson, another West Coast shipyard riveter.

WORKERS LOCKED OUT

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP).—Clarence Wallace, manager of Burrard Dry Dock Company, said here today that approximately 300 night-shift workers who were locked out of the north yard "by mistake," Monday, would be paid for the time they had missed.

A spokesman for the men said that the ship workers, arriving on a ferry from Vancouver, found the gates locked when they arrived at the yard. The ferry was late, and in accordance with a company rule the gate was closed for twenty minutes after the shift warning whistle sounded. The guard refused to open it when the workers arrived. Mr. Wallace said the incident arose through "a mistake" by the guard.

STRUCTURE FALLS AS TANKER HITS BRIDGE

CHESAPEAKE CITY, Md., July 28 (CP).—An oil tanker smashed into the highway drawbridge over the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal today, plunging the huge structure into the canal. No one was on the bridge and no one was injured.

The tanker, southbound into Chesapeake Bay, struck the south concrete abutment, and part of the bridge fell upon the bow of the ship, witnesses said. None of the crew was hurt, but a hole was smashed through the port bow of the vessel.

The bridge, built in 1936, had a 280-foot span, lifted vertically between two towers 128 feet high.

CHANGES ANNOUNCED

EDMONTON, Alta., July 28.—Staff changes and promotions in the Western District of Canadian Pacific Air Lines were announced today by Grant W. G. McConachie, general manager for Western Canada.

C. Becker, formerly general superintendent at Edmonton, is appointed assistant to the general manager there. W. A. Straith, formerly head of pilot training, dispatching and meteorology at Edmonton, has been appointed superintendent of the Saskatchewan division with headquarters at Regina. He succeeds R. W. Ryan, who has been granted leave of absence by C.P.A.L. for the duration of the war.

Air Commodore N. Hollick-Kenyon has been appointed superintendent of pilot training for the Western District, with headquarters at Edmonton.

The railroad which links Murmansk with Leningrad winds 925 miles through frozen marshes and crosses 1,110 bridges.

SOCIETY AND PERSONAL NOTES

Shower Last Evening

Honoring Miss Violet Howland, whose marriage to Mr. Neil Ratcliffe, R.C.A.F., takes place next month, Miss Kathleen Clarke was hostess last evening at a delightful party given at the home of Mrs. Aubrey Kent, 228 Douglas Street. Upon her arrival, the bride-to-be received a corsage bouquet of pale pink carnations, and later in the evening gaily wrapped parcels containing a complete set of kitchen canisters, trimmed in red and cream, were presented to her by her friends. Amusing games were played and enjoyed and a buffet supper was served later. The table, at which Miss Clarke presided, was prettily arranged with a centrepiece of mixed Summer flowers in shades of yellow and white in a shallow bowl surrounded by small bowls filled with the same blooms. Lighted yellow tapers in silver candelabra completed the charming setting. The guests were: Mrs. Margaret Hartley, Mrs. M. Hayward, and Misses Joyce Dawes, Peggy Bishop, Florence Cromwell, Marjorie Hoffar, Eileen James, Jo Stewart, Mary Doherty, Muriel Petherbridge, Peggy Perrins, Marie White, Jean Philip, Esther Allman, Dorothy Robertson, Betty Marr, Violet Short, Maude McCoy, Barbara Hulke, Geraldine Kent, Nancy Robe, Alice Stone, Marjorie McConnell and Jo Perri.

Party for Bride-Elect

The Woolworth-Whiles Club met on Monday evening at the home of Miss Gloria Gill to honor the retiring secretary, Miss Judy Carver, who leaves for Seattle this week, where her marriage to Mr. John Keith will take place shortly. The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with a profusion of yellow carnations and red dahlias. The guest of honor was presented with a lovely gift of trousseau lingerie. During the evening Miss Phyllis Fisher played a number of popular piano selections. Refreshments were served from a prettily-appointed table, with Miss Dorothy Fuller and Mrs. Jessie Thompson presiding at the urns. Members present included Mesdames Jessie Thompson, Jean Atkinson, Peggy Holt, Kate Robertson, Mary McConnachie, and Misses Gloria Gill, Beatrice Sullivan, Irene Crooks, Marjorie Chappell, Jackie Youngs, Carol Carter, Bernice Turner, Winnie Hope, Alice MacDougall, Florence Coeman, Betty West, Nora Prewitt, Dorothy Fuller, Maudie Green and Ann Stephens.

Postwar Group To Hold Meetings At Island Points

The Postwar Rehabilitation Council will leave here tomorrow to hold meetings at Up-Island points, including Duncan, Ladysmith, Nanaimo, Courtenay, Cumberland and Port Alberni. Next week they will tour the Lower Fraser Valley. At all points they will hear views of citizens on the question of postwar planning.

Yesterday the provincial executive passed an order in council adding three women members of the Legislative Assembly to the council. They were Mrs. Nancy Hodges, Liberal, Victoria; Mrs. Tilly J. Rolston, Conservative, Point Grey, and Mrs. Dorothy G. Steeves, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, North Vancouver.

At a meeting here this week Dr. John Davidson, of the Provincial Department of Health, discussed with the council the importance of conserving cascara trees, pointing out that British Columbia is the only part of the British Empire where the cascara tree is native.

Many medicinal herbs, he added, were to be found in the province, which might become a centre for the manufacture of various kinds of medicine.

RED CROSS

MARGARET JENKINS UNIT

Mrs. George Anstey, convener of the Margaret Jenkins Red Cross Unit, will hold a baby shower at her home, 1844 Gonzales Avenue, on August 11, from 3:30 to 9 p.m., when contributions will be received for the baby stall at the grand garden gala to be held at Government House on August 12.

VICTORIA HOSTESS CLUB

The monthly meeting of the Victoria Hostess Club was held on Monday, with the president, Mrs. Alan Morkill, in the chair and the following members present: Mesdames Lennox Irving, Sutherland Brown, C. Beard, A. D. Bechtel, Maude Ross, H. Hetherington and Miss Honor Benson.

It was reported that approximately 11,000 men had used the club in June, on Saturday evenings the attendance varying between 1,000 and 1,300 men of the three services and the merchant service.

Disappointment had been caused by the fact that it was difficult to obtain bands and orchestras for dance music, as dancing is the most popular amusement. In this connection an appeal was made for sheet music of modern jazz tunes.

The magazine convener expressed gratitude for the steady supply of current magazines and papers, which have been arriving since the last appeal was made.

Decoration Day Service To Be Held at Sidney

The annual Decoration Day service under the auspices of the Saanich Peninsula Branch, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., will be held on Sunday afternoon next at Holy Trinity Churchyard at 3 p.m.

The service will be conducted by Rev. C. A. Sutton, of Sidney, and the address will be delivered by Com. Dr. Bruce Taylor, padre of the branch. All ex-servicemen and the public are invited to be present.

Print frocks are a Summer standby for women across the continent. Although dresses made with matching jackets, like the one pictured at left, have been prohibited for the duration of the war under the clothing simplification orders of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the two-piece model at right will continue to be made. By giving up jacket frocks, two yards of material is saved in each model.

Alumnae to Hold Party Next Week

At a meeting of St. Joseph's Alumnae held last evening at the home of Mrs. Gerald Rose, St. Patrick Street, Oak Bay, plans for the garden party to be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Ridewood, St. Charles Street, on Wednesday, August 5, were discussed. Mrs. R. W. Mayhew will open the party and Rowles Boys' Band will play during the afternoon. There will be a delicatessen stall, the lady with a thousand pockets, Bingo and fortune-telling. Instead of tea or coffee, fruit juice with cookies and fancy breads will be served as refreshments. Present at the meeting last night were Mrs. H. E. Ridewood, the president; Mrs. J. Maltman, Mrs. G. McKenzie, Mrs. J. Welch and Mrs. E. Corbett.

Golden Wedding At Jasper Park

JASPER, Alta., July 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Paul, of Minneapolis, who have spent their Summers for the past sixteen or seventeen years at Jasper Park Lodge, today celebrated half a century of married life. The chef surpassed himself in the creation of a golden wedding cake and fellow guests made Mr. and Mrs. Paul a presentation at a little supper party. Telegrams of congratulation included one from R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways. Mr. Paul is an attorney in Minneapolis.

Weddings

UNDERWOOD—RANKIN

At St. Michael's and All Angels' Church, Royal Oak, a pretty Summer wedding was solemnized at 8 o'clock last evening, when Noreen, youngest daughter of Mrs. A. A. Rankin, Beaver Lake Road, and Mr. Glen Donald Underwood, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Underwood, 924 Darwin Road, were united in marriage by Rev. Canon H. V. Hitchcox.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. John Rankin, was lovely in her floor-length gown of white triple sheer fashioned with a Peter Pan collar on a lace bodice with long bishop sleeves. Her chapel veil of white net was held in place by a wreath of lily of the valley and she carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations, pink roses and sprigs of white heather. Mrs. Gordon Dunaway attended her sister as matron of honor in a becoming gown of blue net with lace bodice and three-quarter-length sleeves. Her picture hat of blue mohair was trimmed with pink and blue flowers, and she carried an arm-bouquet of pale pink carnations and deep pink clarkia. Mr. Walter Trace was best man and Mr. Jack Gwilt played the wedding marches.

The church had been decorated by friends of the bride with white gladioli and shasta daisies, and tiny posies of Summer flowers marked the guest pews. A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, where the bride and groom stood beneath a white bell which was suspended from an arch festooned with streamers of white ribbon tied with clusters of sweet pea blossoms to receive the felicitations of their friends. Mrs. Rankin, in a rose floral dress with rose sheer redingote, a beige hat and white accessories, and Mrs. Underwood, in a blue flowered silk suit, with white accessories, assisted in receiving. Both wore corsage bouquets of pink roses and white gardenias. A hand-worked Madeira cloth covered the refreshment table, which was ornamented with a crystal bowl filled with sweet peas, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake which was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

After a honeymoon on the Mainland the young couple will make their home on Quadra Street. For going away the bride wore a turquoise blue dress, grey tweed coat with wolf collar, a biscuit-colored straw hat with turquoise bow, and grey accessories.

For 15 years "COACH LINES" have linked the communities of Vancouver Island with a complete and efficient bus transportation system, catering to all travel requirements.

Now, in wartime, we have an important job to do, keeping vital war traffic on the move and providing essential civilian transportation all over the Island, with a minimum use of tires and gasoline.

To accomplish our task of serving the Island efficiently under these conditions, we have had to eliminate "second sections" on some trips, and you may be inconvenienced, crowded or delayed on some week-ends. We request your co-operation—if you can, travel during the mid-week.

Smart Girls Keep Flyers Up to Snuff

FINGAL, Ont., July 28 (CP).—There are lots of jobs in the Royal Canadian Air Force that women can do better than men and the women's division of the R.C.A.F. is proving that at this Western Ontario Bombing and Gunnery School.

"The girls have done well every job they've tackled," Wing Cmdr. D. D. Findlay, the commanding officer, told The Canadian Press. "And not only that, but the very fact they're here seems to spur the men on to better work. The men have bucked up. They're more careful about their dress and language."

"They don't want to let these girls get ahead of them," he said. "Yes, I think the girls are a healthy influence—I'm all for them."

So he returned the reporter over to the women's senior officer, Section Officer Rowena Cantelon, of Regina, for an object lesson in what he had been saying. S.O. Cantelon was a librarian before she enlisted. Her parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Cantelon, live in Winnipeg.

Corporal Sheila Strang, also from Winnipeg, was the guide and the first port of call was the plotting room of the hangar, past a sign that said: "Synchronize your watches." This is where the airmen gunners send readings of their bomb hits. As soon as they drop a bomb they make a reading and telephone it to Airwoman Myrtle Shaughnessy, whose civilian home is in New Westminster, B.C.

Shaughnessy charts the reading on a practice bomb and plotting chart and figures out the gunner's accuracy score. Flying Officer Moore, who is there to supervise her work, explained the workings of a bomb sight and how most of the gunnery practice is over the lake. A.W.2 Evelyn Disley, of Sudbury, Ont., records the number of bullet holes in the target.

FLOWN AT DUNKERQUE

These girls say they feel pretty close to the war, here at Fingal. In the big hangar next to where they work is a battered Fairey Battle bomber, a veteran of Dunkerque.

Across the hangar is the control tower where A.W.2 Norine Church, of Regina, helps the Bombing and Gunnery School operate. Church, with a cheerful black spaniel Mars sitting beside her, was decoding weather analyses. Then she plotted the weather conditions on a map of North America. Before a long flight an airman comes into the control tower for a look at the map. Church was a student at McGill University before she enlisted.

A.W.2 Geraldine Fulton, of Sydney, N.S., may not have such an exciting job, but she's the first girl to take over the management of the station's official publications and forms. Fulton, who led her class at St. Thomas, Ont., Technical Training School when she graduated, has become the C.O.'s right hand airwoman.

In the noisiest building on the station, amid buzz saws and a jumble of machinery, A.W.2 Linda Kroeker, of Saskatoon, has released an airman for other service. Kroeker gets her face and her hands plenty dirty testing, cleaning and adjusting spark plugs, but she doesn't mind the noise and the dirt. She did housework for a living before she enlisted "and this sure is a lot better."

RUSSIANS BATTLE TO CHECK DRIVE

mainly intact after a month of rearguard attrition, but German reserves were thought to be considerable. Marshal Fedor von Bock was spending lives and machines at a prodigal rate.

All dispatches stressed that Timoshenko's retreat was not a rout but that the Red Army was slaughtering the driving Germans who advanced over heaps of their dead and rubble of shattered tanks, cannon and other equipment.

GERMAN OBJECTIVE

The immediate German objective below Rostov appeared to be Tikhoretsk. Some forty miles beyond Tikhoretsk is Kropotkin and fifty miles farther south is Armavir. Between the last two cities is the natural defence line of the big Kuban River. Before the Germans could reach the first oil of the Caucasus, they also would have to negotiate eighty-two miles of difficult mountain passes beyond Armavir.

The northern fields here and those at Grozny produce about 10 per cent of Russia's oil and the Baku fields produce from 70 to 80 per cent.

Should the Germans gain the Caucasus oil, the blow to Russia would be grave, at the least, because the country's economy as well as large sections of the Red Army has been mechanized.

The Germans also would come into possession of the fuel for which their tanks and planes thirst, but transporting it would be a major difficulty.

The newspaper Pravda said the hard-pressed Germans around Voronezh were erecting permanent fortifications and mine fields.

The Red Army claimed to have captured a forest northwest of the city. Captives were reported as saying there were more bodies than trees in the woods.

On the other sectors of the front, the High Command said, no changes took place.

BERLIN REPORT

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), July 28 (CP).—The German High Command claimed today that German forces driving into the Caucasus have widened and deepened their penetration south of the Don, and to have reached or crossed the river along virtually the whole curving front of the big Don bend.

It reported that infantry and mechanized detachments pushing south of the Don had reached the tributary streams, Manych and Sal, at several points.

A communique said the whole lower course of the Don south of Kalach, on the east bank of the Don where it curves nearest to the Volga, fifty miles west of Stalingrad, had been reached or crossed.

"In the east," the high command war bulletin said, "the bridgehead across the Don near Rostov was greatly expanded in a southern direction in the course of our further advance.

"To the east of the town infantry and motorized detachments crossed the Don on a large front and, after breaking enemy resistance, reached the Manych and Sal sector.

IN DON LOOP

"In the big Don loop fighting is continuing northwest of Kalach. To the south of this place German and German-allied units reached or crossed the Lower Don at all points."

The German air force was said to have played an important part in breaking Russian resistance south of Rostov. Russian air bases, rail centres and freight-laden ships on the Volga were reported under heavy attack. The Germans said they destroyed fifty-three Russian planes yesterday.

Of the northern flank of the Don bend front the high command said:

"In the region of Voronezh, after their extremely high losses in men and material, the Russians failed to attack yesterday apart from some local assaults."

On the central sector—west of Moscow—"encircled enemy forces were annihilated or taken prisoner," the war bulletin said.

Russian attacks against a bridgehead along the Volkhov River, southeast of Leningrad, were reported repulsed.

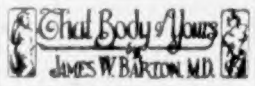
Registration of Canadian Women Is Coming Soon

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP).—A registration of Canadian women aimed at finding workers for war industry and replacing men for military service, is expected to be held soon—perhaps within the next month—but its scope is still undetermined.

Officials of National Selective Service are known to be considering such a registration, which was forecast recently by Elliott M. Little, selective service director, in an address here. But it was understood they have not yet decided whether the registration should be Dominion-wide or confined to certain localities and certain types of workers and age groups.

During his address, Mr. Little emphasized Canada's tightening manpower situation by saying that the Government must find 250,000 persons within the next five months for war industry and service in the armed forces. A registration of manpower would be part of that job.

The Government recently made a registration of unemployed men, which will be repeated every two weeks to keep constant check on the pool of available manpower.



PRESERVING THE HEARING

As we think of the great number of hard of hearing individuals who are now wearing satisfactory hearing aids we are apt to think that we have reached the point where all the hard of hearing accept this condition and are willing to wear hearing aids. Unfortunately, we are still far from that point.

Dr. C. C. Bunch, Northwestern University School of Speech, in an article on the conservation and preservation of hearing in The Journal of the American Medical Association, says:

"Recently an employer was asked what his reaction would be if someone asked permission to test the hearing of his employees. He replied that he preferred to let sleeping dogs lie. A locomotive engineer was asked if he would invite some members of his union to come to the laboratory for hearing tests. No charge was to be made and the results were to be confidential. None appeared for the tests."

Why do employers and employees avoid these tests? Employers are afraid that additional legal regulations and questions of compensation will arise. Employees are afraid that it will bring about loss of employment. It is likely that most of us, whether we were employers or employees, would do just as this employer and employee did.

However, just a little thought should convince all of us that as most cases of hard of hearing are not in an advanced condition but still have considerable hearing ability, the common sense thing to do would be to find out how much hearing was lost, what was causing the loss, what could be done to prevent further loss and what could be done in the way of treatment or a hearing aid to bring the hearing up to or nearly up to normal.

Dr. Bunch recounts the measures being used in factories, tunnels, airplanes and other places and occupations to preserve, not restore, the hearing.

One of the simple methods used to preserve hearing by shutting out noise is the use of absorbent cotton ear plugs, covered with vaseline. Aside from preserving hearing, anything that shuts out noise greatly helps the entire nervous system, which is so sensitive to noise that noise causes mind and body to be kept in a tense condition. Keeping body and mind tense is just as exhausting as hard mental and physical work.

PAY POLL TAXES

SAINT JOHN, N.B., July 28 (CP).—Saint John citizens today received poll tax bills for the first time in many years. The taxes, $8 for men and $5 for women, were approved at the last session of the Legislature after the Federal Government took over the municipal income tax field.

CHAPTER XXXIX

Harold lit two cigarettes and handed one to Fay. "The papers say Tony has been seen with Peggy on several occasions."

She did not reply. Her head was resting upon his shoulder. She closed her eyes upon the memory of an enraged Tony as he had rushed from the apartment.

"It's a rotten trick!" Harold went on in his precise manner. "Running around with another woman. Good Lord, you've been married only a few months."

Five months to be exact, since that snowy day when a reckless girl and a tall, dark-eyed man had stood before the justice of the peace to take their marriage vows. How precious their first few weeks of happiness had been. Tony's tenderness! The way he called her "Sweet" and ran his fingers through her fine, fair hair!

"You're not listening," Harold observed.

Fay shook herself from her dream. "Now tell me what happened," he said, and at the same time his eyes took in the suitcases scattered about the living-room floor. "Aren't these your bags, Fay?"

Wearily she admitted that they were. "I was leaving for Reno tonight."

She almost dreaded to see the hope which flashed into Harold's thin face. "Then you're going to divorce him?"

"I was. He wanted me to. He's in love with another woman. I'm afraid Tony isn't capable of being faithful to any one and I guess I'm not capable of understanding. We seem to be miles apart."

Harold's hand covered hers. "It wasn't your fault, Fay. You and Tony came from different worlds."

"But I still love him," Fay said miserably. "All this trouble about Peggy has made me realize how much I care. I have no pride left. Nothing he does seems to make me care less for him."

"You'll get over it," he assured her as he had done so many times in the past.

It was almost two o'clock when Harold left, insisting that he would stay in New York for the rest of the week. Fay appreciated his help, but wished he would go home. She knew that Tony would continue to be angry as long as Harold was in town.

She slept little, tossing restlessly, her mind confused with dreams of Tony. She rose at eight and felt more exhausted than when she had gone to bed.

When the telephone rang she was not surprised to hear Harold's voice. "How about spending the day with me, Fay? If you don't get out of there you may have a lot of trouble with reporters."

"Reporters? Why?"

There was a pause before he asked, "Haven't you seen the papers?"

"No," Fay cried. "And I don't want to." She could not bear to see in black and white that her husband was involved in a murder. She could imagine how the newspapers would play up the fact that Peggy had been Tony's former dancing partner, that he had continued to see her after his marriage.

"You'd better not answer the telephone," Harold warned. "I'll be over in twenty minutes."

They went to a quiet restaurant for a substantial breakfast. Harold was as solicitous as a hen with one chick. "You're too thin, Fay. You look like you hadn't had a square meal."

She tried to smile. "Well, I have!"

But Harold stared disapprovingly at the signs of fatigue beneath her blue eyes, the wistful unhappy mouth, the sharpened line of her shoulders under the soft folds of her black crepe dress. She had worn her soft hair long for dancing, but this morning she had drawn it back tightly in a knot on the nape of her neck. Her pale face showed the strain of the past few days.

Impulsively Harold took her hand. "Oh, Fay, my dear! Why couldn't you have married me instead? I've been in love with you for such a long time. Do you remember when I used to carry your books to school and we always said that when we grew up we'd get married?"

His sincerity touched her. Ever since she could remember there had been Harold. Harold, tall and serious even in childhood, always solicitous and loyal though she knew that in her reckless way she must have hurt him many times. But Harold had not wavered in his affection for her. She had always been fond of him as one might be fond of a brother. But now that she had known love she found a new appreciation in his words.

"You've thrown me over a lot of times," he went on. "But in the end you always came back for comfort or advice. You must care a little for me, Fay."

"Oh, I do," she cried impulsively. Harold had taken her to her first dance, sent her the first corsage. When she cried because she failed in high school chemistry it was Harold who had said, "It doesn't matter, honey! Those things are important only for men anyway."

Never once had he hurt or failed her. Harold had even agreed with her plan to marry Tony when he saw that her mind was made up. He had tried to explain her reasons to the family. Now when he thought she needed him he had left his business and come to her by plane.

FOR THE NONCE

It is almost an archaic expression, the only usage in which appears the fossil word nonce.

Meaning for the occasion or for the time being, for the nonce is, strangely enough, a corruption of the phrase, for then once.

"Then," here, is the obsolete dative form of "the," and the transference of the letter "n" from the end of "then" to the beginning of "once" is the curious result of a natural tendency of careless speech, which rarely establishes itself in the language.

In this instance it did, for the nonce.

No washing job is complete without...

SUNLIGHT'S "EXTRA-SOAPINESS" for the extra dirty parts

Children make lots of "washing" every week—little garments get soiled with extra dirty spots.
Food stains and grimy edges on tablecloths are difficult to get really clean.
Overalls get soiled with the hardest kind of dirt to wash out—greasy grime that sticks tightly.

CLOTHES get badly soiled in the same difficult places week after week. Pillow cases are dirtiest where sleepy heads have rested . . . shirts at the collar bands and cuffs. Almost everything in the wash has extra soiled parts which require an additional soaping to get them really clean.

Any soap—bar, powder or flakes—will remove the general dirtiness. But much of the grime clings tightly, and only the Sunlight method of washing will remove it. Sunlight has a wonderful "extra-soapiness" which enables you to get right at the extra dirty spots at once. Just apply lightly—scarcely more than a mere touch—and you leave a film of soap right in contact with the dirt. And because it is Sunlight Soap this film is sufficient to loosen the last tiny speck of stubborn grime.

In the rich Sunlight lather every particle of dirt is carried away, yet its action is gentle—safe for the finest materials. It is all good pure soap—and that purity means perfect safety for everything in the weekly wash. It's genile to your hands, too

Little Mite Steals an Egg

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

If Peter Rabbit could have known how Reddy Fox had been sitting so close to little Mite, the lost baby of Danny Meadow Mouse, that his tail was over him and that he did not know it at all, Peter would simply have laughed in his sleeve instead of being angry and anxious as he saw Reddy coming in his direction. Not that Peter was afraid for himself. Oh, my, no! He had seen Reddy in plenty of time and he knew that his long legs would take him to safety. What made him anxious was the thought that Reddy would be sure to poke around and try to find out what Peter had been doing.

Now, you know Peter had been trying to find the lost baby of Danny Meadow Mouse so as to take him back home, and what he was afraid of now was that Reddy's keen little black nose might find what Peter's eyes had been unable to find. So Peter didn't hurry away as fast as he would have otherwise. In fact, Peter took chances. He actually tried to tempt Reddy to chase him so that he might lead him away from that place. He made faces at Reddy and called him names. But Reddy had found out from one of the Merry Little Breezes, who had been thoughtless, the secret of the lost little Meadow Mouse, and he paid no attention whatever to Peter. Instead he began to run this way and that way, with his nose to the ground, sniffing and snuffing for some trace of Meadow Mouse, and all the time he was going farther and farther from where little Mite was.

Now just as soon as little Mite thought it was safe to move, he began to run in the opposite direction. He wanted to get just as far as he could from that dangerous neighborhood. It was hard work pushing through the grass, for there were no little paths there, but he was too frightened to mind the hard work and kept right on. One thing he had learned, and that was the wisdom of keeping perfectly still when an enemy was near and hadn't yet seen him. It was one of the most important lessons he would ever learn, though he didn't know it at the time.

So he ran until he could no longer hear the angry voice behind him

After what seemed to him like a very long time he came to a tiny path. It wasn't as good a path as the private little paths that Danny Meadow Mouse makes, but still it was a real little path, and, of course, that meant easier going. He hurried along it and then quite unexpectedly he came to a little house hidden in the grass. He stopped short and eyed it suspiciously. It looked something like his own dear home in the middle of the pile of old cornstalks, for it was made of dried grasses. It wasn't quite so big and it had no roof. Little Mite looked this way and looked that way. He couldn't see anyone about, so he crept up and peeped into the little grass house. Inside were four little, speckled shiny things. They were the queerest things he had ever seen and he didn't know just what to make of them.

With another hasty look to see that all was safe, little Mite crept in and touched one of the queer, speckled things. It was very smooth and rolled a little when he touched it. He wondered if it was good to eat. The only way to find out was to bite it and find out. At first it slipped away from his sharp little teeth. He clutched it in both hands and tried again. This time his teeth went through, and inside was something simply delicious. He sucked it all out and it seemed to him that he never had tasted anything quite so good. You see, he was very hungry.

He had just reached for another of the little speckled things when without any warning at all something sharp hit him on the head. "Ouch!" cried little Mite and started to run. And then it seemed as if a hundred enemies were striking at him from all sides, and the air was filled with shrill, angry cries. Somehow he couldn't fight back. All he could do was to run and run. At last the terrible blows stopped. But little Mite didn't. He wanted to get as far away as he could. So he ran until he could no longer hear the angry voice behind him. It was the voice of Little Friend, the Song Sparrow, for it was Little Friend's nest that he had found and one of Little Friend's eggs that he had stolen.

Lieut.-Col. Clegg Will Open Show

It was announced by officials yesterday that Lieut.-Col. S. C. Clegg, officer commanding the Dufferin and Haldimand Regiment, will open the ninth All-Sooke Day at Sooke Flats today at 2 p.m.

It was also made possible through the kind permission of Lieut.-Col. Clegg for the Dufferin and Haldimand Regiment Band to be in attendance.

This year the programme has been somewhat restricted because of war conditions. However, a large attendance is expected and many attractions have been planned for the amusement of the visitors.

In addition to many land events, there will be a salmon barbecue, fish chowder and tombolas. To finish off the gala day a dance will be staged in the Sooke Community Hall.

Freezing Stocks Aids Prisoners

There is an interesting story behind the recent order of the War-time Prices and Trade Board freezing the stocks of corned beef in the hands of retailers and distributors.

The Red Cross urgently needs the corned beef to send to Canadian prisoners of war.

The parcels for prisoners when are packed by the Red Cross are streamlined. They are a standard length and depth, they hold standard packages, and among these a tin of corned beef fits into an allotted corner.

It is stated that corned beef may be eaten for days in succession without ill effects, and for that reason it is a valuable item in the parcels for prisoners. These tins of corned beef are also needed for the Navy and Merchant Marine, and form emergency rations in the lockers of lifeboats and of liferafts. It also serves as a reserve ration for the active army, for lighthouse keepers and for isolated defence posts in Canada.

SEES DEFEAT OF JAPANESE

Writer Says "Westernized Thinkers" Vision Long War And Japan the Loser

(Joseph Dynan, twenty-nine, joined the Summer of 1941 after having worked on The Japan Times and Advertiser and The Honolulu Star-Bulletin. He is a native of Chicago.)

By JOSEPH DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 26 (Delayed) (AP).—Although morale ran high in Japan through the early course of the war, I have reason to believe that deep within their hearts many of the more thoughtful Japanese foresee a long, dreary conflict and eventual defeat.

This premonition of disaster is strong among "Westernized thinkers," despite a heavy barrage of lopsided propaganda which has claimed recruits even in the ranks of the educated.

The spirit of the rank and file is soaring, due to scarcely-dreamed-of successes and exploits ranking with the German conquest of Europe.

GETS ONLY ONE SIDE

The Japanese public gets only one side, but the facts currently speak for themselves, with the Rising Sun flapping over Indo-China, Hongkong, the Philippines, Thailand, the East Indies, Burma, Singapore and great segments of China.

The capture of the fortress of Singapore especially heartened the Japanese.

Japanese civil and military officials in occupied areas are behaving cockily according to the pattern established in China.

The people have absorbed some of the grandiose feeling of the strutting, sword-waving officers until now the dread of war with Britain and the United States has been outweighed temporarily by the feeling that Nippon is up to the task.

Typical of the attitude taken by the Japanese is the demand by internment officials in Hongkong that Americans salute them continually, the effort in Yokohama to include internees as exhibits in street parades and celebrations in Singapore.

FILLED WITH SUCCESS

The public mind is intoxicated by the sweep of Japanese operations and the extent of their current holdings, an extent vitally necessary in the opening days of the war when the people were awed by the decision to fight the world's richest powers.

Thus the April 18 raid by Gen. James Doolittle's airmen constituted a tremendous jolt to the public because the people returned to their earlier depressive tendencies.

I have reason to believe that the feeling is widespread among educated Japanese that the country's only salvation lies in elimination of the military clique which brought on the conflict.

But these individuals feel that this elimination process could be possible only through major Japanese defeats. They themselves are powerless and it is a mistake to rely on them, because they are Japanese, first, last and always.

They believe they can step in [illegible] ing a military disaster. Thus a Japanese educationist urged an American friend to leave the empire, because he said that when the tide turns there will be a revolution of unpredictable violence against foreigners and the military.

SAYS TEACHERS MUST BE CALM

Cpl. D. W. Taylor Explains Duties of Teachers During Air Raids

"Your hardest job will be to keep the children from becoming panic-stricken, and above all you must not let one of them get over-excited, or they will all become out of hand," Corporal D. W. Taylor, A.R.P. head of the Provincial Police, told Summer School students at the Victoria High School yesterday in explaining the duties and responsibilities of school teachers in the event of an air raid.

Cpl. Taylor spoke on "Knowing What to Do, and How," and he stressed the importance of thorough training for the students. He told the teachers it was their responsibility to see that students received this training.

Suggesting that in time of raids the students take cover under their desks or tables, Cpl. Taylor said, "Desks have saved more school children in England than all the air raid shelters combined.

He said, "In the event of a raid, everyone becomes scared, even you will. It is natural. But what you must do is keep cool, and don't let the children see that you yourself are frightened. If you do, they will lose faith in your guidance, and follow their instincts blindly."

Cpl. Taylor suggested that schools select senior leaders to care for groups of eight to ten students, and to hold those leaders responsible for the safety of the group under their care.

ROBERT YOUNG IN NEW ATLAS FILM

"H. M. Pulham, Esq." Is Based on J. P. Marquand's Best-Seller—Hedy Lamarr in Feminine Lead

"H. M. Pulham, Esq." brought to the screen by King Vidor from the pages of J. P. Marquand's best-seller novel, will open today at the Atlas Theatre.

Robert Young, Hedy Lamarr and Ruth Hussey are starred in the picture which recounts the life of Pulham, young Bostonian, who, after Harvard and the World War, plunges into business activity in a New York advertising agency and meets the love of his life in an ambitious "career-girl." Then, unable to escape his destiny, he returns to his home town to marry the girl of his family's choice, and, twenty years later, finds that when the opportunity comes he cannot recapture the romance of his youth.

STARS FEATURED ON CAPITOL BILL

Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr and John Garfield Are Colorful Characters of "Tortilla Flat"

Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr and John Garfield form the all-star trio who bring to life the colorful characters of John Steinbeck's best-seller novel, "Tortilla Flat," now filmed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and opening today at the Capitol Theatre.

The story deals with the happy-go-lucky life of a group of paisanos who lead a carefree existence on Tortilla Flat. Tracy is Pilon, leader of the band; Garfield is the young and romantic Danny. All are content with their lazy life until Danny falls in love with fiery Dolores (Miss Lamarr), who refuses to marry him until he becomes respectable and goes to work.

Frank Morgan heads a fine cast of supporting players which includes Akim Tamiroff, John Qualen, Donald Meek, Connie Gilchrist and Henry O'Neill.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Atlas—Robert Young and Hedy Lamarr in "H. M. Pulham, Esq."

Cadet—Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Babes on Broadway."

Capitol—Spencer Tracy and Hedy Lamarr in "Tortilla Flat."

Dominion—Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville in "Syncopation."

Oak Bay and Plaza—George Raft and Pat O'Brien in "Broadway."

Rio—"The Lady From Cheyenne," starring Loretta Young and Robert Preston.

York—"The Corsican Brothers," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Ruth Warrick.

CADET THEATRE No less than sixteen songs are heard in "Babes On Broadway," the M.-G.-M. musical film starring Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, which will end tonight at the Cadet Theatre. They include among others: "Chin Up—Cheerio—Carry On," "In the Light of the Silvery Moon," "She Is My Daisy," "Swanee River" and "Blackout Over Broadway."

DOMINION THEATRE More than thirty songs, from old ragtime favorites and Negro spirituals and "blues" to modern swing tunes, are featured in William Dieterle's new R.-K.-O. Radio offering, "Syncopation," now showing at the Dominion Theatre. Covering the period from 1907 to the present day, the story deals with the development of the modern dance rhythms, and is interwoven with an unusually human-interest plot.

OAK BAY AND PLAZA THEATRES A spotlighted feature of "Broadway," now showing at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres, is an exotic tango featuring George Raft and Janet Blair. It is executed to the stirring beat of "La Cumparsita." Raft is noted as one of the foremost dancers of films, having been previously starred in "Bolero" and "Rhumba."

RIO THEATRE "The Lady From Cheyenne," a frontier comedy produced and directed by Frank Lloyd, will end tonight at the Rio Theatre with Loretta Young in the starring role in the first "Western" role of her career. Miss Young's supporting cast includes such well-known players as Robert Preston, Edward Arnold, Gladys George, Frank Craven, Jessie Ralph and Stanley Fields.

YORK THEATRE Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Ruth Warrick are the romantic duo in Edward Small's production of the Alexandre Dumas classic, "The Corsican Brothers," which will end tonight at the York Theatre. Fairbanks plays the dual role of the twin brothers who seek revenge for the wrongs done their family.

What Today Means

"LEO"

If July 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m., from 1:15 to 3:15 p.m. and from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:15 to 9:15 a.m., from 5:15 to 7:15 p.m. and from 9:15 to 11:15 p.m.

Stabilize your affections, for if you play fast and loose you may find yourself in a lot of hot water. Display of favoritism will cause trouble, especially in domestic circles. Impulsively generous people also are apt to be extremely hot-tempered on July 29 and, if offended, are likely to express themselves in a decidedly vigorous fashion. You may discover on this date that the average person who is free of guile and pretence will have little use for those resorting to them, and he will not take the trouble to conceal his dislike. Married and engaged couples, as well as those enraptured with someone's fair charms, should realize on this day that "it is a bad plan that admits of no modification."

If you are a woman and July 29 is your birthday, analyze yourself and then do your best to overcome your weaknesses and correct your faults. The results you achieve should be gratifying. You must not let domestic or commercial interests absorb your time to the extent that you get into the habit of neglecting cultural opportunities. As a missionary, lecturer, actress, modiste, interior decorator, singer, teacher, business executive, designer, newspaper woman, author or broker, you may find yourself rapidly climbing the ladder of success. For so long as you remember that marriage is a game of give and take, you will find it one of which you never will tire and a continuous source of happiness.

The child born on July 29 should be warned frequently against being overly venturesome. Wanderlust and the spirit of adventure often is responsible for these youngsters getting into trouble. Having good minds and being physically fit, Leo children will more than hold their own in the race of life.

If you are a man and July 29 is your natal day, remember that your brain, like your stomach, only can assimilate thoroughly a certain amount within a limited time, so never overtax it. With courage you can overcome reverses, for your resourcefulness is unlimited. As an inventor, author, journalist, politician, lawyer, clergyman, sculptor, artist, business executive, sales agent, or in some branch of government service, your opportunities to advance yourself appear to have no limitations.

TREATMENT

At a boarding-house a guest was sawing away at the sinewy knee-joint of a roast chicken leg. At last, waving an arm towards a bottle of sauce on the table near the landlady's elbow, he said:

"Pass the liniment, please, Mrs. McPherson. This seagull has rheumatism."

CHURCHILL WAS RIGHT

Something went wrong in the cookhouse and the pie crust was as hard as a brick. The mess was sent it back with a message:

"Give us the tools and we'll finish the job!"

FOREST FARMING FOR B.C. URGED

Army and Navy Veterans Would Have Government Name Committee to Consider Plan

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP)—The Provincial Command of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada has passed a resolution calling upon the Provincial Government to name a committee to consider the advisability of introducing "forest farming" in British Columbia.

The duties of the committee would be to secure all available data on forest farming, as practised in many European countries, draw up a plan adapted to British Columbia conditions and place it before the Postwar Rehabilitation Council.

The Provincial Command also urged the Provincial Government to secure, by direct purchase or by exchange, the privately-owned stand of green timber known as Cathedral Grove, adjoining the Island Highway on Vancouver Island.

WAITING FOR ORDERS

A railroad agent in Africa had been reprimanded repeatedly for doing things without orders from headquarters. And one day his boss received the following telegram:

"Tiger on freight platform eating conductor. Wire instructions."

Glancing Over Sport

By JOE DELAHUNTY

REMEMBER WHEN?

The night that Chief Bolo really walloped that homer out of the Athletic Park fence? . . . The night that Bolo's team faced the local all-stars? That ball must be still traveling, for of all the circuit drives I have seen from the press coop, the bleachers and the grandstand, that was the longest smack I ever laid eyes on. It sailed over the centrefield fence, cleared the houses across the street and ended up in the middle of Princess Avenue . . . Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross were battling it out for the welterweight championship of the boxing world? Ross won the first fight, lost the next and regained his title the third time out. Fight fans still argue over those close decisions. Some say that Jimmy won all three fights and others are just the opposite in their opinions . . . Strangler Lewis and Bob Kruse wrestled at the Armory on Bay Street before the largest crowd in local grappling history? That match took place during the day that the town was wrestling conscious. The fans would walk two or three miles to watch the grunt and groaners then . . . Jim Barnes and Jock Hutchinson, then at the top of the golfing world, played an exhibition match at the Oak Bay links of the Victoria Golf Club? They attracted a big crowd and turned in a smart exhibition . . . Cumberland won its first and only Canadian soccer championship? The Up-Islanders had a smart club in those days and swept through the Dominion without a great deal of opposition . . . The Macaulay Point Golf Club was first opened to the public? That was away back before the turn of the century when the higher-ups in the army dominated the nine-hole layout.

ODDS AND ENDS

That was a neat victory of Byron Nelson's in the $15,000 Tam o'Shanter open golf event in Chicago. Byron had the meet closed out on Sunday but a faulty putter forced him into a play-off over eighteen holes with Clayton Heafner on Monday. Nelson captured the top money of over $2,000 by four strokes. It was his second straight victory in this rich meeting and the triumph placed him not far behind Ben Hogan in money won since the start of the year . . . The Colwood Golf Club bestowed an honor upon R. H. Pooley just recently when they made him an honorary life member. He deserves it, for Mr. Pooley has done a great deal for the royal and ancient in the past forty years or more . . . Noel Morgan, ace first sacker for Pitzer & Nex and left winger for Victoria United soccer eleven, has joined the Royal Canadian Navy. Several more of Victoria's top athletes are putting on the uniform these days, according to reports reaching the sports department . . . Not many ball fans know it, but Rollie Hemsley, who recently joined the New York Yankees, was catching for the Chicago Cubs when they were in the world series against the Manhattan lads back in 1932 . . . Here's another one for you diamond fans. Joe "Cronin played for the Pittsburgh Pirates over a decade ago in the Fall classic. When Tom White told me that information I was on the verge of arguing with him, but instead we dug through the record books and there it was in black and white . . . Remember when Joe Wright, of Toronto, Diamond Sculls winner in 1928, was beaten by two lengths at the forty-seventh Canadian Henley thirteen years ago last Monday? His conqueror was none other than Jack Guest from the same city, who won the big event in the Old Country the following year.

FROM HERE AND THERE

Sergeant Roy Woolsey, who is connected with the Jokers lacrosse team, claims that Ken Calverley has just as hard a shot on goal as any player in the senior circuit. "I should know, for I have been in the net during the workouts, and that boy really lets them go," stated Roy the other evening as we chatted about the boxla sport . . . If the Seattle Rainiers get the breaks they can win their fourth straight pennant. I see where Catcher Kearse, from the Yankees, has rejoined the Sound City club. He should be a great help to the Skiff clan for the rest of the campaign, for he has had good tuition with the world champions and is fairly potent at the plate . . . Harold Pawson, former sports editor of The Vancouver News-Herald, is now in the Royal Canadian Air Force . . . Georgie Woolf, who has been riding Whirlaway to fame, put himself right out of the Empire City track meeting. They were stripping Lord Calvert in the winner's circle when the horse came down hard on George's foot . . . Satchel Paige, the famous colored baseball pitcher, one of the greatest moundsmen in the history of the game, just turned thirty-four and has been tossing them past batters in unorganzied ball for the last eighteen Summers . . . Mary K. Browne, the former United States tennis champion, is now "Somewhere in Australia," where she will serve Uncle Sam's many nephews there as a Red Cross attache . . . The skating rink at Springfield, home of Eddie Shore's hockey club, has been taken over for the duration by the United States Army. So Eddie is now on the hockey loose again. Do you suppose that Manager Art Ross, of the Boston Bruins, will sign him up for the coming season?

Cards, Dodgers Split Two Games

St. Louis and Brooklyn Break Even in Double-Header—Giants and Cincy Reds Capture Two Fixtures—Yankees Trim Chicago to Widen Lead—Browns Drop Battle

(By The Associated Press)

Johnny Vander Meer, Eric Tipson, Dick West and Ray Starr specialized in one-man shows yesterday as they led their Cincinnati Red teammates to twin victories over Philadelphia Phils, 8-1 and 3-1.

Vander Meer gave up but two safeties to make the first game of the double-header his tenth victory of the year, while Tipson contributed mighty support with a single and a double which drove in four runs. Starr kept the Phils in hand in the nightcap with five scattered hits.

New York Giants went to both extremes in taking a double-header from Chicago Cubs. They blasted out seven successive hits in the first inning of the opener, good for six runs, and then went on to win 9-5, and took the nightcap 3-0 as Hal Schumacher outpointed Johnny Schmitz and Tot Presnell in a hurling battle.

St. Louis Cardinals scored seven runs in the seventh inning to beat Brooklyn Dodgers, 9-1, in the second game of a double-header after the National League champions had taken the opener 7-6 before a capacity crowd of 33,212.

After being given a shutout pitching performance by Johnny Sain for eight innings, Boston Braves had to load the bases to squeeze in the winning run in the ninth to defeat Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3.

The bats of Joe DiMaggio, Joe Gordon and Charlie Keller spoke with a decided emphasis, and the pace-setting New York Yankees hung up an 8-3 victory over Chicago White Sox for their sixth success in seven games of the current road trip.

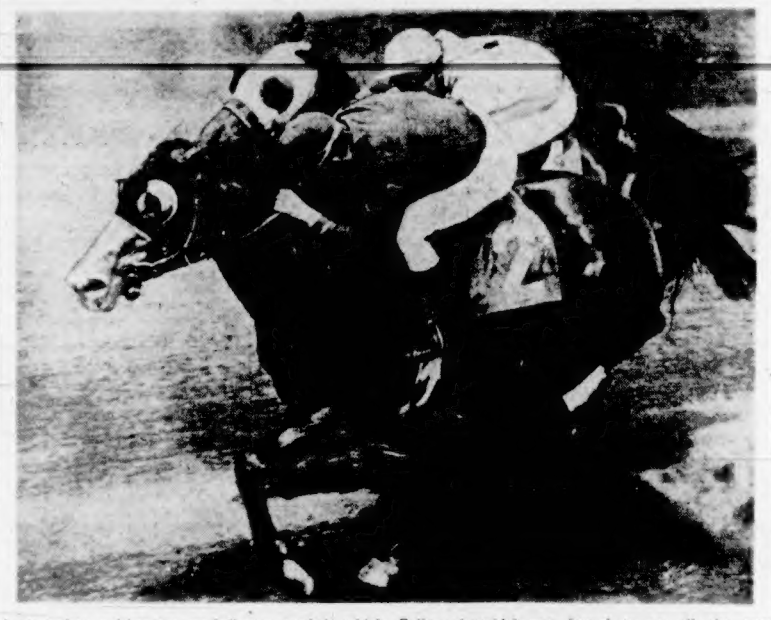
SATURDAY'S CARD FOR ATHLETIC PK.

The programme of events for the mixed wrestling and boxing show, to be staged at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock with total net receipts being donated to the A.R.P. fund, is as follows:

Main event, wrestling: Chief Thunderbird, of Saanich, weight 220 pounds, versus George Kitzmiller, Portland, weight 220 pounds, six eight-minute rounds. Semi-final: Mohan Singh, Victoria, weight 196 pounds, versus Bulldog Jackson, Portland, weight 195 pounds; Ram Singh, Victoria, 155 pounds, versus Johnny Bartell, Victoria, weight 145 pounds, four four-minute rounds; George Lowe, Chinese flash, Victoria, weight 135 pounds, versus Bill Stein, Victoria, weight 135 pounds, four-four-minute rounds.

A boxing bout is now being arranged between junior welterweights, the opponents being members of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Victoria Machinery Depot.

On the Turn at Arlington Track



A somewhat exciting turn at Arlington track in which Believe (outside) was forced to go all the way around Hugabit (2) to win the first race at Arlington. This picture was made on the last turn coming into the stretch. Haas is up on Hugabit. Believe is owned by Mrs. A. Swenke, wife of trainer of Alsab.

HOSPITAL IN 5-3 VICTORY

Esquimalt Softballers Even Series With Barons—Tiremen Triumph

Four big runs in the seventh frame brought the Esquimalt Military Hospital softball nine through to a 5-3 victory over the Barons in the second game of the semi-final series in the "A" division of the City Softball League last night at the Royal Athletic Park. McCorkall was on the mound for the winners and pitched good ball the entire distance, allowing only single runs in the first, seventh and ninth innings.

Two of the three runs garnered by the losers came as the result of home run blows from the bats of Gerard and Pizzuto. Lacote went the route for the Barons and allowed seven hits, but that rally in the seventh inning proved to be his downfall.

Douglas Tire captured the "B" division honors by trimming the Victoria Machinery Depot for the second straight time by a score of 15-2. Bacon pitched for Ed Ashe's club and had the shipbuilders under control all evening with a fine change of pace. The winners got away to a 7-0 lead in the first three frames and from then on coasted home to an easy decision.

Score by innings:

Barons	100 000 101—3
Esquimalt	000 001 40x—5

Batteries: Lacote and Gerard, McCorkall and Harper.

Douglas Tire	403 211 002—15
V.M.D.	000 200 001— 3

Batteries: Bacon and Perkins; Wilson and Lim.

Two important games will be played tomorrow evening. Coach and Horsea will meet the Navy at Victoria West Park, while the Barons will be battling it out with the Esquimalt Military Hospital at the Athletic Park. Both games will start at 8:45.

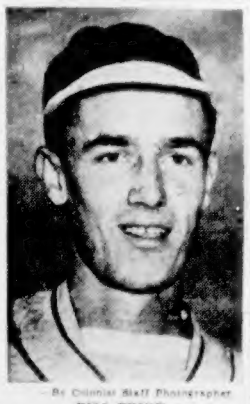
Will Pitch Against Flyers Tonight



By Colonist Staff Photographer

BILL PRIOR

NINETEEN-year-old right-hander, who will parade to the mound this evening at Royal Athletic Park when Pitzer & Nex oppose the Flyers from Patricia Bay in a McGavin Cup baseball game. "Toad" Garnet, teen-aged catcher, who worked with Prior in last Saturday's eleven-inning 4-4 tie with the Royal Canadian Navy, will do the home plate chores. Resting at the tail-end of the standings, the lads from Patricia Bay are sorely in need of a win to retain their play-off hopes. Husky Bert Appleby, southpaw artist, will probably do the chinning for the Flyers. Game time is 6:30 o'clock.

Tomorrow's Games:

6:00—Senators vs. James Bay.
7:00—Owl Drug vs. Young Jokers.
8:30—United Services vs. Oaklands.

Turning back the Jokers, 19-10, last night at the Sports Centre, Bays-Douglas Tire stickhandlers took over sole occupation of the premier berth in the senior boxla standings, two full points ahead of the idle United Services.

With Gus Munro handling the club, and rotund Ted Menzies watching the fixture as a spectator, the eventual winners came from behind a one-goal first period deficit and finished up with a ten-goal margin over the black-sweatered stickmen.

Jokers displayed their best form in the opening stanza and pulled up at the short first stanza breather with their score 3-3 in their favor. In the second period the eventual winners outscored Smith's proteges, 3-1, and assumed a lead which they never relinquished.

But the real downfall of the Jokers came in the final period when the Bays-Douglas Tire rattled home eight markers, exactly four times as many as their opponents.

Goalie Bill Andrews, guarding the net for the losers, was the busiest man on the floor, and his evening chores became harder as the game progressed. He turned aside forty shots, almost double as many as "Buzz" Long in the Bays-Douglas Tire goal.

Gib Stevens, Bays-Douglas Tire, and Ken Calverly, most improved player on the Jokers' line-up, shared scoring honors, each firing home five markers.

Playing in the second game on the card, Young Jokers defeated Young Bays, 16-3, to consolidate their lead on second place in the Juvenile "A" League standings.

Fletcher's Men's Shop turned back V.M.D., 11-3, in the opener.

Tomorrow's card at the Sports Centre will feature a meeting between the United Services and Oaklands. The sailor and soldier combination will be out for victory in order to climb back on even terms with Bays-Douglas Tire.

Ted Menzies, Bob McInnes and Norm Barton, all-star selectors, will name their team for Saturday's exhibition match with the Vancouver All-Stars in charge of Andy Paull. Locals will trot out another powerful squad in hopes of registering their second straight victory in inter-city competition.

Owner-Manager Stengel

By JOHN LARDNER

North American Newspaper Alliance

NEW YORK, July 28.—Charles Dillon Stengel, part owner of the Boston Braves, is not in a position to point with much pride to his property, which is a low-class property at the moment, as such things go. His best assets are a charming, intelligent manager—name of Stengel—and the league's leading hitter.

"That manager is a fine fellow, if you like 'em gabby," says Stengel, the owner. "He talks too much for my taste, but if you don't mind having your ear chewed he is certainly a nice guy and one to whom I wish the best of luck.

"As for that big ketcher of mine," adds Casey, "I am glad I do not have to stand out there in the infield when he comes to bat and run the risk of getting my head knocked off."

MURDEROUS COMBINATION

"There is, undoubtedly, something murderous about the combination of a baseball bat and Ernest Natali Lombardi. I don't recall that Mr. Lombardi has killed anyone as yet, but this is simply a tribute to the agility of the pitchers and infielders of the National League and the speed with which they duck.

The Big Horn is leading the league in hitting as we go to press. That in itself represents a noble comeback, for Mr. Lombardi, thirty-four years old and twelve years a major leaguer, was regarded as decadent and shucked off the payroll by the Cincinnati Reds—a team which can spare hitters about as well as the United States can spare ships.

Perhaps we should not blame Deacon Will McKechnie, of Cincinnati, for disposing of Ernest when he did. The man with the vast proboscis was not helping the Reds, as far as the Deacon could see. The melancholy climax to Lombardi's career in Cincinnati came in the world series of 1939, when Yankee base runners sprinted enthusiastically around the bags in the final game of the series and Ernie sat in the dust back of the plate, unable to pull himself into the vertical alignment so warmly recommended for ball players when play is in progress. By the time Mr. Lombardi got to his feet the world series was to all intents and purposes over. And when Ernest grew no more lissom and sprightly as the next two seasons passed, Deacon McKechnie waived all rights to the big catcher, including the south forty acres of his justly famous trumpet.

MIGHTIER THAN DOGS

That could have been the end of Lombardi as a practising big leaguer. But up in Boston Mr. Casey Stengel was meditating the ins and outs of human anatomy. He meditated as an owner, and then meditated as a manager. He came to the same conclusion in both capacities, which shows you the happy, harmonious relation that exists between ownership and management in Boston.

"There is nothing in the book," muttered Mr. Stengel, "that says a man cannot swing a bat just because his dogs are large and old and slow. Look at me. I was an ancient sort of guy in the world series of 1923, but I turned out to be the hero of same," said Mr. Stengel modestly to himself, "by whaling a couple of home runs to win a couple of ball games. The bat is mightier than the dogs."

That is certainly true of Big Horn Lombardi. Since boyhood Ernest has been longer getting from one base to another than it takes to fight a full-dress naval engagement. Since boyhood, however, and right up to the present time, he has hit the ball harder than almost anyone in baseball. I think Lombardi and Hank Leiber were the two hardest line hitters of the last ten years—and Lombardi has always been more free and promiscuous with his base hits than Leiber.

Today, with his dogs practically taking root in the soil, the big man with the big nose is hitting around .350. Owner Stengel can point with with pride to this phenomenon, and to the handsome and intelligent manager who brought The Horn to Boston.

FOOT CONSCIOUSNESS

Become foot conscious if you would avoid a stilted stroke. Starting the swing here starts the body turning and if this action is continued during the stroke many errors could be avoided. For instance it is not necessary to have the weight forward in the stroke. Indeed such an idea fosters a swing which is quite likely to throw one off balance. For added to the body's forward leaning posture is the centrifugal force of the descending blow which can prove just enough to make one lose balance completely.

By dividing the weight evenly between the ball of the foot and the heel, the knees bent in a semi-sit-down position, the feet have fuller freedom and so it follows does the swing. Keeping the toes turned up helps in bringing about this greater sense of balance.

Diamond Sport Aiding The Armed Services

More Than $140,000 Realized Already by Fund in Charge of Ford Frick and Clark Griffith—100,000 Pieces of Equipment Sent Out

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP).—From the kitty to the kits might be the title of this little tale of what happens to the game we love best—baseball—in wartime. It's the baseball equipment fund for the armed services, and how it happens.

To date about $140,000 has come under the control of Ford Frick and Clark Griffith, in charge of the fund, and more than 100,000 pieces of equipment have been sent out to United States soldier and sailor athletes.

The procedure is this: Frick, in charge of details, works through the army area headquarters and naval district commanders. These agencies send in their requests for equipment, which Frick orders shipped direct from the factories for distribution among units in question.

The equipment is forwarded in kits. Kit "A" consists of a dozen baseballs and three bats. Kit "B" includes complete catching equipment. In addition to this, more than 3,000 copies of The Sporting News, the ball players' Bible, are sent to service outfits weekly.

Expenses have been reduced to next-to nothing. In comparison with the First Great War, when, of the $148,969 collected, expenses came to about $54,000 so far only $82 has been spent to carry on the work.

The money in the kitty has come from the following sources: Direct contribution by each major league, $1,000 from the baseball writers, $25,000 from the minors, and $100,000 from the all-star games.

GROWING GRADUALLY

The fund is growing gradually, and unexpectedly. Frick opened a letter yesterday and found a cheque from the Hollywood club for $1,544, representing a share in proceeds of the major all-star Pacific Coast League all-star game there last March.

The foul-ball bank also is contributing materially. These balls are the ones hit into the stands which the spectators toss back on the field.

The National League headquarters is the foul-ball clearing house for the circuit, with the clubs sending their contributions there for distribution. They are sent out in dozen lots with a note telling the recipient which club is the Santa Claus.

More than 200 dozen such balls have been shipped to service units in the United States and overseas. The number of balls contributed by each club varies according to the parks. The Giants, for instance, are the largest contributors because of the Polo Grounds, with the short-right field, has balls popping into the stands all afternoon. The Giants have sent in forty-eight dozen, or an average of more than a dozen a game.

Open Play-Offs Tuesday Evening

Second Division baseball clubs will open their 1942 play-offs next Tuesday evening at Beacon Hill, according to an announcement made yesterday by league officials.

Army and V.M.D., second and third berth occupants, respectively, will meet in a best-of-three series, with the winner advancing to the finals against the first-place Navy nine.

BETTINA TO JOIN UP

PHILADELPHIA, July 28 (AP).—Mello Bettina's farewell fight for the duration—a return bout with Gus Dorazio, of Philadelphia—was canceled for good tonight a few hours before ring time because of weather conditions.

The one-time light-heavyweight king, who has run up thirty-three straight victories since entering the heavyweight division, will enter the army Thursday.

The fight originally was set for Monday night, but postponed until tonight because of the weather.

HALLBERG ROBS CHINOOK CLUB

Fishermen of Losing Softball Team Looking for Sunday's Umpire

Last Sunday's picnic of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, at Deep Bay, Saanich Inlet, was a great success, and the 200 members who attended all voiced the same thought, "Let's do it again." It was a perfect day as the anglers and their friends gathered at Sandy Beach after a fine trip over from Brentwood. After blankets and picnic baskets had been arranged to suit their owners, the races for children were run off, followed by events for the grown-ups. The egg-and-spoon race really started the fun, and the three-legged race showed fine activity by several of the younger members. The tug-of-war, two men to a boat, showed mighty rowing strength in the person of Chuck (Winston) Kinlock, Phoenix, skippered by Captain [illegible] for the Anglers was President Ray Ritchie, catching, and John Watt, someone had not committed sabotage by cutting one of his oars in half before the event started.

The softball game got under way in the evening, with Lee Hallberg calling the balls and strikes, and although he did not require a police escort to get away from Sandy Beach, no one has seen him about town since. The Chinook Club took an early lead and ran the score up, 7-4, at the end of the third inning. The Anglers fought back gamely and in the last half of the fifth and final inning, scored seven runs to [illegible] event, but young Crouch claims that his side would have won easily if pitching; for the Chinook Club, Alex Provan, catching, and Herb Cummings, pitching. Tommy Ward, Chinook Club president, presented the cup to the Anglers' team, but not until Umpire "Two-Ton" Hallberg lined up with the team, as a certain feeling seemed to exist that he was greatly responsible for their win. Now rumors are flying about that there will be an official protest and a possible replay, on the grounds that the umpire was favoring the Anglers' club.

This Sunday the directors of the Anglers' Association will take their annual cruise on the good ship Phoenix, skippered by Captain Chuck (Winston) Kinlock.

"IF YOU WERE DUSTING THE MANUAL OF AN ORGAN, WHAT PART WOULD YOU BE DUSTING?"

That was the question put to Mrs. Nuttall, 665 Pine Street, on the Bulletin Board programme yesterday morning. Mrs. Nuttall answered correctly by saying, "the keyboard," and thereby doubled her prize money and also that of her "silent" partner, Mrs. Young on Beach Drive. Both contestants received two dollars in cash. The Bulletin Board Quiz Contest is open to any member of the Bulletin Board Club, and, once you join the club, you have the opportunity of winning a cash prize every weekday morning. The programme is broadcast from 9:15 until 10:00. Just send your name, address and telephone number, if you have one, to the Boys and Girls Will Play Roles In Picture Here

More than 100 boys and girls, blond children between the ages of four and thirteen, were interviewed by moving picture executives in the Empress Hotel yesterday. Many of them will be used to enact the roles of children in a Norwegian fishing village under Nazi domination in the film "The Commandos Come at Dawn."

Canadians of Scottish, Irish, English, even Russian descent, with an occasional small "war guest of the Canadian Government" from across the Atlantic, they will be used in school and wedding sequences of "The Commandos."

Meanwhile, swelling the number of noted artists in the city, two prominent actors arrived from Hollywood yesterday to play roles in the picture. They were Alexander Knox, who appeared in the films "This Above All" and "The Sea Wolf," and Philip van Zandt, who played in "Wake Island."

Officials of the Lester Cowan Production Company, which is producing the war picture here, announced yesterday that additional extras will be required for shots ashore.

Canadians Are Popular With Scottish People

Canadians engaged in forestry work overseas are doing a splendid job and are making many friendships, according to T. Thomson, 1813 Chestnut Street, Victoria, who recently returned to Canada.

Mr. Thomson served for sixteen months in the ranks of a forestry [illegible] from the army.

"The men engaged in this work are doing a splendid job," he declared. "Never have I seen them stop work on account of weather and believe me, it can be bad there. In the bush and in mill work things go along smoothly for each man knows his work and day follows day with something really accomplished. They are a grand bunch of men."

Mr. Thomson said that the Scottish people are very kind and many of the men have formed strong friendships in Scotland.

"It was with real regret that I parted with the boys in the company," he added.

Guy Sheppard, adjutant of the company, and also of Victoria, was regarded as one of the outstanding officers of the Forestry Corps, he said.

Mr. Thomson said that the people of Britain are deeply grateful to the

PTE. T. THOMSON

Russian people for their magnificent stand against the Germans.

"They feel that the Russians have greatly lightened the load, and I believe that the sacrifice and courage of these people will never be forgotten. The great efforts of the Russians have meant much to the people of Britain during these days of adversity," he added.

GIVES TALK ON RUSSIAN TOUR

Dr. W. E. Brewing Explains Background of Revolution During Lecture

Russia was no farther away from medieval thinking in 1917 than was France in 1789, and to understand Russia of today she must be compared with other European countries as they were more than 100 years ago, it was stated last night by Dr Willard E. Brewing at Metropolitan United Church.

Dr. Brewing, of Toronto, reviewed a tour of Russia which he made in 1934 with a company of Americans and Canadians, and was able to interpret the background of the revolution as related to the present. He also explained several of the severe steps taken by the Communist party in establishing its regime.

Although royalty was eliminated after the revolution, he said, the Russians did not turn their palaces into museums, as other European countries had done. "For me, the slaying of the Romanoffs was compensated to some extent by the sight of thousands of children and their mothers enjoying the grounds of one of the great palaces on the Baltic Sea," he said.

There was also a successful effort made to preserve all the art treasures within Russia, he said, which are now used for their propaganda value.

Dr. A. E. Whitehouse introduced the speaker, whose lecture was sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of the church. Featured soloist of the evening was Miss Peggy Walton, who sang two sacred numbers.

OFFER IS MADE TO AID SAANICH

Victoria School Board has offered to admit to city schools sixty elementary school students from Saanich at a compromise rate of $60 a pupil annually, it was announced yesterday.

Members of the board explained that the offer was made to assist the Saanich board which faces the prospect of having to build a school in the Mount Tolmie and Shelbourne Street area, just outside the city boundary. The Cedar Hill School, it was explained, is too far from the area and its accommodation already is taxed.

The offer will for the most part affect pupils who formerly attended the Provincial Normal School, which was closed.

The board said it was to the city's advantage to grant a special rate because of the large number of students involved.

Board Provides Travelers With Rationing Books

American tourists who have no sugar ration books should make application for them at the nearest office of the ration division of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, it was stated yesterday by A. B. Food, ration officer in this area.

Provision has been made for the issuing of these cards, he said, which are intended for the use of travelers who prepare some of their own meals. They are to be surrendered when the tourist leaves the country.

Any person who has not yet made an application for a sugar ration book should do so immediately, Mr. Food said, since permanent ration books will be issued later in the year according to the file on hand.

Members of the armed services are excepted, he said, since the rationing problem will be handled by their respective units.

DRAWS YEAR TERM FOR STEALING CAR

Convicted on a charge of stealing a car from Winifred M. Pearce on July 3, Lloyd E. Badger, a sailor, was sentenced to serve one year in prison at hard labor, at the conclusion of his trial before Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court yesterday afternoon.

Allan Baker appeared for the accused and Carew Martin represented the Crown.

Constables Arthur Rudge and Thomas Banister stated the car, stolen from a parking lot on View Street, had sustained damage estimated at $284.02 when driven over a sidewalk, through a fence, and into the porch of a house at 870 Simcoe Street early on the morning of July 4. They found Badger's cap on the front seat of the machine and the accused on the west side of the house receiving first aid for a cut on the right side of his head.

Badger failed to convince Judge H. H. Shandley that he had been drinking heavily on the night the car was stolen and had been merely offered a lift back to barracks by an unidentified man who was driving the stolen vehicle.

City & District

Building Permit — Luney Bros., Ltd., secured a $5,000 city building permit yesterday to make additions to the Pacific Sheet Metal Works, Ltd., at 1010 View Street. C. Elwood Watkins is the architect.

Seeks Reduction—In a letter received at the City Hall yesterday, J. T. Slingsby asked that the Turkish bath trades licence of $20 every six months be reduced in respect of [illegible] Garden.

Critical Condition—Agnes Pelkey, eighteen-year-old Indian girl of Sidney, who was severely injured on the C.P.R. dock early Sunday morning when a truck crushed her against a railing, still lies in a critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, according to hospital authorities.

Leaves Force—Constable William Elliott, a member of the city police department since December 30, 1940, has entered the R.C.N.V.R. as an able seaman. Before joining the department he was a quartermaster on C.P.R. coastwise vessels. He was well known in local golf circles at Gorge Vale and Uplands Golf Clubs.

Eleven Fined—Nine motorists were each fined $2.50 yesterday in the city police court by Leonard C. Lytton, J.P., for various infractions of parking regulations. Another paid a $5 fine for ignoring a stop sign. One was fined $5 for disobeying the direction indicated by a traffic control signal.

Attractive Insect — A young boy, Andrew McLeary, of 2930 Bridge Street, left an attractively marked insect in The Colonist office, which is on exhibit in the window. Andrew and his companions, with a love for natural history, had made inquiries concerning the captive, and were informed it was known as the Banded Borer, whose official designation was Rosalia Funalis, and that it lived on alder trees in its early stages as a grub.

No Reduction—At a meeting of the City Council lands committee yesterday afternoon it was decided to recommend that no reduction be made in the $125 per month lease held by Home Oil Distributors, Ltd., on city property occupied by Buckle's Service Station at the northwest corner of Douglas and Pizgard Streets. It was also agreed to recommend that a property lease held by the Rock Bay Lumber Co. on Rock Bay Avenue be renewed at a figure of $25 per month. Alderman T. W. Hawkins presided at the meeting.

Spitfire Fund — A Spitfire plane with machine guns, two twenty-millimeter cannon and a Rolls-Royce Merlin engine, giving it a speed of 400 miles per hour, has recently been named for the Dorothy Mary Spitfire Fund of Canada, and will be attached to an operational squadron, according to word received at the City Hall by Miss Mary Powers. Vancouver Island donations totalled $582.25, of which $252 was raised by Dorothys and Marys in Victoria. Since women organized the fund, $750,000 has been sent to the Ministry of Aircraft Production for fighting planes.

Commissioner Named — James Thomson, Vancouver, has been appointed a conciliation commissioner by the Provincial Government in an endeavor to settle a dispute between civic employees and the City Council over a cost-of-living bonus. City Hall employees, the police and fire departments, School Board employees and Victoria Public Library staff are affected. School teachers and the outside city staff are not included in the forthcoming negotiations. On May 11 the City Council approved a bonus of $10 to heads of households and $5 for single employees, with 25 cents and 46 cents per day for employees on daily pay scales. Employees hope the commissioner will recommend higher figures.

BUREAU OPPOSES RECOMMENDATION

Directors Feel Present Rules Governing Traffic on Park Bridge Are Adequate

A resolution opposing a recommendation of the Parks Board that the City Council adopt a by-law prohibiting automobile traffic over the bridge in Beacon Hill Park, and prohibiting sightseeing buses from using any roads in the park, was adopted unanimously at a meeting yesterday of the directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

It was pointed out that each year, in normal times, thousands of tourists drive through the park in buses, where they can see to good advantage Ursus Kermode, Goodacre Lake, the cricket grounds, and other points of interest would be denied them should the proposed by-law be adopted.

The bureau directors were also of the opinion that existing regulations prohibiting commercial vehicles and private automobiles over a certain weight, from using the bridge, and which in addition limit traffic on the bridge to one direction, are sufficient protection to the public, and afford those driving in private automobiles, many of whom are tourists, a splendid opportunity of viewing the park from one of the best points.

For this reason, and to protect the tourist business in future, the bureau will ask the city not to enact the by-law.

BUILD MERCY SHIPS

BERNE—(CP)—Shipwrights in Lisbon now are fitting out a merchantman with the name of Caritas I., which will fly two flags, the Swiss Ensign and the emblem of the International Red Cross. This ship will form the first of a fleet of mercy ships to carry cargoes to war prisoners and suffering populations.

Subscriptions to City A.R.P. Fund Now Total $8,416

Citizens have subscribed $8,416.58 to the A.R.P. fund up to June 30, Mayor Andrew McGavin revealed yesterday. Of that amount, $4,465.73 was specifically earmarked for ambulances. The objective of the fund is $100,000.

Total A.R.P. expenditures up to June 30 were $12,204.91 and included three ambulances, $3,760.23; auxiliary fire-fighting equipment, installation of warning sirens, office expenses, equipment for first-aid posts and the central control station, and hauling sand.

A short-wave radio telephone system being installed by the police and fire departments will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

B.C. Police Will Not Be Replaced

Reports current in Vancouver recently that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police would take over policing duties in British Columbia now performed by Provincial Police were denied by Hon. R. L. Maitland, Attorney-General, yesterday.

"There are no definite negotiations of that nature at all," Mr. Maitland said.

NEW SUGAR RATIONING BOOKS IN SEPTEMBER

O. H. Bell, in charge of the rationing division of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Vancouver, warns citizens who have changed their addresses since turning in the original application card for sugar, to send their present address to the nearest office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The new sugar rationing books will be issued in September, and unless the correct addresses are on file there is a possibility that many people may be overlooked. It is pointed out that citizens are compelled by law to advise the nearest ration office of any change of address.

WEIGHED UP

Newly engaged and very full of it, Mary took the lucky man to interview, and be interviewed by her Aunt Jane.

At a convenient moment Mary asked proudly:

"Well, aunty, what do you think of him?"

"Mary, my dear," said the old lady, who believed in speaking her mind, "I'd sooner feed him for lunch than for life."

Candy Travels Six Months

Last October a naval man's wife sent her husband a box of candy for Christmas. He was transferred before the box arrived. It followed him about 'til March and he wrote home saying the candy was in perfect condition.

3 pounds are on the way now.

The Daily Colonist

RATES FOR CLASSIFIED OR WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

Two cents a word each insertion, twelve cents a word a week, with a minimum of ten words, cash with order. No advertisement accepted for less than twenty-five cents.

Death and Funeral Notice, $1.50 first insertion; $1.00 for each additional insertion. Marriages, Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam Notices, $1.50 per insertion.

Birth Notices, $1.00 per insertion.

Advertisers who desire may have replies addressed to a box at The Colonist and forwarded to their private address. A charge of ten cents is made for mailing replies. In this case add three words (Box Colonist) to the count for the number of words.

Out-of-town readers of our advertisements ask advertisers to give address as well as phone numbers, as it is not always possible to communicate through the phone.

Any claim to rebate on account of error or omissions must be made within thirty days from the date of the same, otherwise claim will not be allowed.

The Colonist will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one issue.

The Colonist service is available every day from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., excepting Sunday. Just call E mpire 4114.

To insure insertion, Classified Ads should reach The Colonist before 9 p.m. on the day previous to publication.

Classified Ads for The Sunday Colonist will be accepted up to 9 p.m. on Saturdays.

1 BIRTHS

BASSETT—To Captain (overseas) and Mrs. L. W. Bassett, daughter, July 27, at St. Joseph's Hospital.

2 DEATHS

CAMPBELL—There passed away accidentally at the Malahat on Friday, July 24, 1942, Mr. Peter Robertson Campbell, aged forty-three years. The late Mr. Campbell was born in Scotland and had been a resident of this city for the past forty years, his late residence being 1090 Falmouth Road. He leaves to mourn his passing, beside his loving wife, two sons, Kenneth and Terry, and one daughter, Miss Patricia Campbell, all at home, and one daughter, Mrs. H. Strauss, of Cold Harbor; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell, of Colquitz; four brothers, George, Robert, Andrew and David, and one sister, Mrs. Hamilton, all of Oakland, California.

The remains are resting in the chapel of the Sands Mortuary Ltd., from where the funeral cortege will leave on Wednesday, July 29, 1942, at 2.30 o'clock, for St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill Crossroad, where funeral services will be conducted at 3.30 o'clock. Interment will be in the churchyard cemetery.

FYFE—At the Jubilee Hospital on Sunday, July 26, Mrs. Margaret Fyfe, in her seventy-sixth year, late residence 728 Bowker Place. The late Mrs. Fyfe was born in Scotland and had been a resident of Victoria for the past seven years. She is survived by one son, John A. Fyfe, of Lawrence, Mass., and one daughter, Mrs. Agnes Anslow, of Victoria; also four grandchildren and two sisters.

Funeral services will be held in the Thomson Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. James Hood will officiate, and interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

AYTON—At Mount St. Mary there passed away Sunday, July 26, Ernest Frederick Ayton, of Quebec Street. The late Mr. Ayton, who was eighty-four years of age, was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, and moved to this city twenty-five years ago from Mexico. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. Hansen, Royal Oak, and one son, Ernest, in this city.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon, Wednesday, at 2 o'clock, from the parlors of the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home. Rev. J. R. Fife will officiate and cremation will take place at the Royal Oak Crematorium.

BOOTH—In this city there passed away Sunday, July 26, Anna Elizabeth Booth, at the age of seventy-seven years. The late Miss Booth was born in Yorkshire, England, and had resided in this city for the past forty-two years. She is survived by one sister and four cousins.

Funeral services will be conducted this morning, Wednesday, at 10 o'clock, from Christ Church Cathedral. Rev. J. R. Fife will officiate and cremation will take place at the Royal Oak Crematorium. S. J. Curry & Son have charge of arrangements.

TURNER—There passed away at Royal Jubilee Hospital on Saturday, July 25, 1942, Mrs. Janet Dorothy Turner, aged fifty-six years. The late Mrs. Turner was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and had been a resident of this city for the past twenty-four years, her late residence being 1128 Caledonia Avenue. She leaves to mourn her passing, besides her husband, one son, James C. Turner, of 5012 Fernwood Road, two daughters, Mrs. Marie Durand, of Yates Street, and Miss Janet Turner at home; also one granddaughter, three sisters, and one brother in Scotland.

The remains are resting in the chapel of the Sands Mortuary Ltd., from where funeral services will be held on Wednesday, July 29, 1942, at 2 o'clock. Rev. N. E. Smith will officiate.

4 CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Painter and family wish to express their many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy in the loss of their dear son and brother, Melville, also the Sisters, nurses, doctors, of St. Joseph's Hospital, and especially Dr. Sinclair for his kind attention during his long illness. To the many blood donors both known and unknown who so willingly helped in a vain attempt to save his life, we thank you all.

4 CARD OF THANKS (Continued)

Mrs. A. Alder and family, of Deep Cove, wish to thank their many friends for floral tributes and words of sympathy during the loss of a beloved husband and father. Special thanks to Dr. Roberts, of Rest Haven, to the Rev. Payne and to Dr. Bruce Taylor who read the Canadian Legion service at the graveside and also to the members of the Saanich Peninsula Branch of the Canadian Legion.

5 IN MEMORIAM

Trends Balanced In Stock Market On Wall Street

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP).—The stock market took a bearish news budget in its stride today, with selling negligible and enough bids appearing to keep trends fairly well balanced.

The fall of Rostov to the Nazis was viewed as one of the worse developments of the war, but shareholders at the opening displayed no disposition to dump commitments. Narrowly irregular prices ruled throughout. At the close plus and minus marks were about evenly divided. Dealings slowed appreciably after a fair amount of activity in the forenoon.

A large batch of industrial company statements disclosed sharp setbacks in profits for most concerns in the first half of 1942 compared with a year ago. Word the administration was preparing to apply inflation brakes was considered none too bullish. The consensus, however, was that a lot of unpropitious happenings may have been at least partly discounted.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was unchanged at 36.7 for the fourth successive session. Transfers amounted to 264,940 shares against 259,530 on Monday.

Buying of rails simmered, although Santa Fe again managed to edge into new high ground since 1938. Chesapeake & Ohio also ended with a small advance.

General Motors was off 1-8 in the face of earnings figures showing net for the June quarter and the first six months was less than half that for 1941.

United States Steel was off 1-4 and after the close directors voted a dividend of $1 a common share, same as in the previous quarter.

Moderately improved were Columbia Pictures, which made a new year's top; Johns-Manville, Bethlehem, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, United States Gypsum and Philip Morris. On the offside were Great Northern, Chrysler, General Motors, Kennecott, Western Union, Dow Chemical, Du Pont and Westinghouse.

DOW JONES' AVERAGES

Dow Jones' averages closed as follows:

Thirty industrials, 106.48, off .18.

Twenty rails, 26.05, off .05.

Fifteen utilities, 11.51, off .01.

Total sales, 264,000 shares.

British Chief Welcomed

Lieut.-General Hugh A. Drum (left), commanding general of the United States Eastern Defence Command and First Army, shown welcoming Lieut.-General G. N. MacReady, the commander of the British army forces in North America, to Governors Island. General MacReady was on an official visit to the island.

WHAT'S DOING ON THE LOCAL RETAIL PRODUCE MARKET

Despite the arrival of a carload yesterday, the price of apricots is rising, and wholesale officials predict the season will not last much longer. Oranges, the duty on which will commence August 1, are plentiful, however. The lemon market is still firm and the price of grapefruit is lower.

Transparent apples are also showing a decrease in price, and locals are now appearing on the Row. The banana supply is sufficient, though wholesalers are uncertain as to the arrival of the next shipment, while cantaloupe are scarce and very high.

Seedless and Red Malaga grapes appeared on Wholesale Row yesterday, and a shipment of California peaches will arrive today. Washington Santa Rosa plums and a few loganberries and boysenberries are now appearing, but raspberries are local sweet cherries are finished.

On the vegetable row, beans are more plentiful, and onions, a shipment of which has just arrived, are lower in price. A shipment of California field tomatoes also appeared yesterday, and there are a few hothouse locals. There should be local olivets this week-end.
